THE WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Toledo, O., Aug. 8, 1892.

An area of high pressure is west of Montana this morning and is causing fair and cool weather in that region, the temperature at Helena being 47°. A "low" is over Lake Superior, and its influence extends southwest to Texas, and over the lake region, causing warm and generally cloudy weather, with light showers over the region under its influence, with one exception, St. Paul, where one inch and eight hundredths of rain fell last night. The temperature is very high this morning in the Mississippi valley from La Crosse to Cairo, ranging from 78 to 90 at 8 a. m., 75 med. time. There is another area of high pressure east of Florida, and the warm air from the south is rushing north towards the lakes. Fair and warm weather will prevail, with a thunder storm on Tuesday in this vicinity, until Wednesday, when, from present indications, there will be a cessation of the present warm spell.

STRIKE IS BROKEN.

The Men at Duquesne Return to Work.

Six Hundred Men Desert the Amalgamated

And Return to Their Positions in the Mill.

A Depressing Effect on the Homestead Men.

The Carnegie People More Firm Than Ever in Their Effort to Crush Out the Labor Organizations.

Duquesne, Pa., Aug. 8.—Between five and six hundred men, acting unanimously as previously agreed on, effectually broke the strike in the Carnegie mill at this place at 6 o'clock this morning.

They returned to work in a body and the soldiers were not required to protect them.

The repairmen had the mill ready for running, steam was turned on and several departments were started almost full and begun to turn out finished steel.

There were many members of the new Amalgamated lodges formed here since the strike begun among those who went back to work and they did it openly without fear of what their companions would say. There was no disorder at all.

Small crowds of men who had not taken advantage of the offer of Superintendent Morrison, stood near the mill gates, just outside of the line guarded by the soldiers watching the men return, but they said not a word.

The battalion had been drawn up in marching order and was kept in line, fully armed, for two hours, but no word of command was given. Some of the most skilled among the strikers were in the number returning to work. One of the men said:

'We have been watching the course of events very closely and while we would have done all we could to help the Homestead men we saw that it was useless; that the company means business and that we could not win without a struggle that would have been too hard for men who have families. We talked this over and we are glad that we took the step we did."

The officials are well pleased with the action of the men and all is pleasant. The news at Homestead had a depressing effect on the strikers there, but there was no sign of wavering in the strike.

WILL FORCE THE FIGHT.

Carnegie's Protected Millions To Be Turned Against His Workingmen.

Pittsburg, Aug. 8.—Secretary Lovejoy, of the Carnegie Steel company, was asked this morning by a United Press reporter what was the plan of his company toward the Homestead strikers. He said:

"We have started in on this conquest of riot by law and it will be carried to a finish. There will be anywhere from fifty to one hundred more informations for murder and aggravated riot charges made against Homestead strikers before we are through with them.

"We are proceeding carefully and get only evidence to a certainty before the charge is made.

"We mean to make no mistake and the best detective skill in the country has been engaged. We have officers of long experience at work in Homestead and the informations I make are on evidence gotten by these men who will be produced in court and give sworn testimony.

"There would have been more informations before this but for the fact that many strikers engaged in the riot have run away. Meantime evidence against them is being gathered and when they return, informations will be made against them and they will be arrested. If they do not come back, they will be followed up until they are arrested and brought back for trial."

ALL IN LINE

American Federation of Labor and the Knights of Labor Will Boycott Carnegie Materials.

Homestead, Aug. 8.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was in Homestead yesterday. He was in conference with the leaders of the Homestead strike for several hours, at the conclusion of which he departed for New York.

He refused to talk for publication, but it is understood he assured the officers of the local lodge of the Amalgamated association that 700,000 members of the Federation were in line, and that the full power of the organization will be brought to bear in behalf of the Homestead steel workers, and that every member will contribute to a fund for the benefit of the strikers.

The federation, according to Mr. Gompers, will also assist in carrying out the boycott on all material manufactured by the Carnegie Steel company. The Knights of Labor, too, have fallen into line, and the men here feel greatly encouraged. Vice Chairman Crawford, of the advisory board, stated this evening that applications for machinists are coming in from all parts of the United States, and that quite a number of mechanics who came out on a strike have thus found employment in union mills elsewhere. Fully 200 members of the National Guards were sent home this evening. Battery B will go to-morrow, while the Fifth regiment will in all probability depart Tuesday.

Dont be deceived by dealers who "cut" prices. "Cutting" prices leads to "cutting" goods. For this reason and to protect the public, the genuine medicines of Dr. R. V. Pierce, are now sold only through regularly authorized agents, who can sell only at the following long-esablished prices:

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, $1.00 per bottle. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, $1.00 per bottle. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, 25 cents per vial.

The genuine medicines, which can be had only at these prices, are the cheapest remedies you can use, for they're guaranteed. It's "value received or no pay." In every case where Dr. Pierce's medicines fail to benefit or cure, the makers will return the money.

Refuse everything offered as Dr. Pierce's medicines at less than the above prices. They are generally spurious.

Don't get something that the dealer says is "just as good." It may be better for him, but it's pretty certain to be worse for you.

SONS OF VETERANS.

The Annual Gathering at Helena, Montana.

A Large Turnout—Russell Harrison Finds It Convenient to Attend the Meeting.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 8.—The doors of the new Auditorium were thrown open this morning to welcome the third national convention that assembled within its walls since its completion in June, the occasion being the annual gathering of the Sons of Veterans.

The convention proper consists of about three hundred members, delegated from the different branches of the organizations throughout the country, but, as has always been the case at the previous gatherings of the order, several thousand visitors are present, and the new structure was taxed to its utmost this morning to accomodate the crowd.

The citizens of Helena hav econtributed liberally for the entertainment of the visitors, and the city is elaborately decorated throughout.

The sittings of the convention will continue for four days, and numerous excursions and receptions have been arranged to take place during this period.

Russell B. Harrison is present as a delegate from the New York council of the order, and is also chairman of the transportation committee.

THE BORDEN MURDER.

Police Unable to Find the Slightest Clue.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 8.—In looking over the Borden mansion for a possible clue to the double murder, one place was unsearched yesterday by the police, but the officers said there was not the slightest danger of any change in the surroundings by leaving the matter over. City Marshal Hilliard submitted to a long interview. Of the spots of blood said to have been found on an ax in the custody of the police, he said: "I don't know whether these spots were blood or iron rusts. They were of a character that might be taken for either but until the Boston chemist passes an opinion it would be folly for me to speak. We have four axes in our possession. Two are such axes as farmers use, one is an ordinary chopping ax, the other is what I call a shingle ax. There may be spots of blood on either or all of these, but I cannot say there is the slightest evidence on any of them. There is nothing in the Westport clue. I sent men to chase it down to prove it to myself but after every doubtful point had been cleared up I decided there was no man traveling to New Bedford from this city under suspicious circumstances. I can say there is nothing to connect any members of the family with the murder. We can reach a certain point, but from thence forward things will not match and we can't make them. If you ask me if I have anything really new in this whole case I would say no; but of course, you know I have a great many things in hand. Anything may happen at any moment."

The police guard has been kept up around the house all day and crowds of visitors have swarmed about the locality.

RESULT OF DRINKING.

A Terrible Tragedy at Fluvanna, on Lake Chautauqua.

Jamestown, N. Y., Aug. 8.—A terrible murder and suicide was enacted last evening at the hotel at Fluvanna, three miles above this city, on the lake.

Patsy Dowd, of Dunkirk, was out driving with a couple of disreputable women from this city. It seems they had some words and Dowd hit one of the women in the mouth, drawing blood. This occurred a short distance above Fluvanna. They drove to the hotel, and all got out and entered the hotel.

A young man named George Hass and some companions were there, and as one of the women, whose name was Nina Fahey, had blood on her face, Hass asked her what was the matter. She told him that Dowd had hit her in the face.

Dowd and the women then entered the parlor and closed the door.

Dowd drew a revolver and Hass and his companions threw beer bottles at him. He fired and Hass fell dead with a bullet in his heart. Dowd then left the hotel and the police from this city were sent for.

Dowd returned in a few minutes and seeing what he had done turned the revolver toward his heart and fired four shots into his body. He died in a short time.

DENVER IS OVERFLOWED

With the Knights Templar and Ladies.

Thousands Pouring in From All Directions.

Every Arrangement Made to Insure to the Visitors a Royal Time While In the West.

Denver, Aug. 8.—Over sixty thousand Knights Templar, and as many more visitors, are thronging the streets of Denver to-day. The formal opening of the twenty-fifth triennial conclave will take place to-morrow, and it is doubtful if another event of the kind will ever be held.

The order is growing so rapidly that it is only a question of time when a single gathering of the entire organization will be practically impossible, and the crowds in Denver to-day bear evidence that the limit is almost reached, and by the time another three years has rolled around it will probably be found necessary to hold two, or even three, conclaves in different parts of the country.

So the twenty-fifth, the silver conclave of the Knights Templar, held in the greatest silver city in the country, is likely to prove the last, and in numbers and magnificence it will surpass its twenty-four predecessors in the series of events which it is destined to bring to a close.

The citizens of Denver have raised over a hundred thousand dollars to defray the expenses of the gathering, and have done everything in their power to provide accommodations for the visitors, and yet the hotels, boarding houses, and even many of the private dwellings, are packed to suffocation, and stores, vacant buildings, and in fact everything with a roof and four walls has been filled with cots and pressed into service.

Every incoming train adds to the crush, and the committees who have been appointed to welcome the visitors and direct them to lodgings, are having more than they can do. The committees have been supplied with pamphlets giving information regarding the principle streets and hotels, and containing a complete map of the city showing the location of the different headquarters and hotels. These have been scattered broadcast, and have greatly simplified the work of handling the crowd. Over a thousand sleeping and day cars have been side-tracked at different points in the city and are being utilized as sleeping apartments. Yesterday the church services were arranged especially for the knights, and every church in the city was packed to its utmost capacity. To-night the resident commanderies will hold receptions from 8 to 12 o'clock, and the first grand illumination of the city will take place.

BY THE THOUSAND.

Knights and Ladies Are Arriving in Denver.

Denver, Col., Aug. 8.—All day yesterday and this morning the reception committees had their hands full and their abilities were taxed to the utmost.

Commanderies came in rapidly and escort duty was no sinecure. At the eastern end of the depot the committee's headquarters were established last week. Members have been constantly in their attendance.

A number of rooms have been secured in the Sheridan building, only half a block away, for any who may become exhausted or sick. Besides the general tent for the committee there is a commodious one near at hand, enclosed for the use of ladies, attended by a committee of the knightly parties, to refresh themselves after their long journey and before going to permanent quarters.

These provisions are for the visiting templars, but the general public is by no means neglected. A citizens committee of four hundred has detachments on hand at all hours of the day to welcome their guests to the city and furnishing such information as desired. All of them were fully occupied Sunday and this morning.

The crowds started from the east just in time to pour into the city within the 48 hours beginning yesterday morning. Large numbers came before, but the special trains along with the regular trains in three or four sections, all crowded, made the throng very large.

Added to these came those from the west and north with the touring knights who have been doing the state also.

The crowd this morning on the streets was tremendous. The influx will likely reach its maximum to-night, as to-morrow is the all important day.

It had been intended to give Grand Master Gobin a big reception when he came in from his Colorado trip. This was prevented by his quiet arrival in the city last night, without announcement.

He was escorted from Colorado Springs by Pike's Peak commandery, and went at once to his hotel.

This evening St. John's commandery, of Philadelphia, will give a grand reception in his honor and that will be the first formal demonstration. The largest commandery to arrive yesterday was from Boston. They have been in the state for several days taking in the scenery of the Rockies. Mississippi grand commandery also came in and attracted a good deal of attention by their fine appearance and excellent band.

By midnight last night the following commanderies had arrived and been placed in quarters: Ascalon, of St. Louis, escorting Gov. Francis, who is also eminent commander; Mt. Cavalry, No. 1, of Omaha, and Joppa, No. 17, of York, belonging to the Nebraska grand commandery; Mt. Olivet commandery, of Erie, Pa., with D. A. Swadler, eminent commander; Pennsylvania, No. 70, from Philadelphia, J. A. Campbell, eminent commander; Arizona grand commandery, with full staff of officers; Commandery No. 1, of San Francisco, Sir Washington Givinter, eminent commander; Joliet commandery, Joliet, Ill., George Wilcox, eminent commander; Aurora commandery, No. 22, S. J. Ricker, eminent commander; Urbana, Ill., commandery, J. A. McLane, eminent commander; South Bend, Ind., commandery, M. M. Fisher, eminent commander; Iowa grand commandery, W. F. Cleveland, grand commander; Des Moines, Ia., commandery, D. S. Perkins, eminent commander; Topeka, Kan., commandery, No. 15, D. G. Brown, eminent commander; Aleoppo, Kan., commandery, M. J. R. Treat, eminent commander; Grand Rapids, Flint and Pontiac, Mich., commanderies all came in on one train together. East Saginaw came in later. Grand commandery of Montana, Carl T. Peterson, grand commander; grand commandery of Missouri, David W. Wallace, grand commander.

St. Joseph and St. Louis commanderies came in with big delegations. Boston commandery, Eugene A. Holton, eminent commander; Grand Forks, N. D., commandery, David M. Holmes, eminent commander; Palestine commandery, of Trenton, N. J., with a large list of knights and friends; Buffalo and Jamestown were the only New York commanderies to arrive. Chillicothe, Athens, Scioto and Circleville, Ohio, commanderies are on hand. Rome, Ga., commandery and the Atlanta commandery came in together.

The grand commandery of Minnesota, accompanied by commanderies from Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. It is estimated with these and individual knights that fully 10,000 had come in.

Most prominent among the individual knights was Hugh McCurley, deputy grand master, who will succeed Grand Master Goblin. Another is Joseph A. Locke, chairman of the ritual committee. He is the advance guard of the Maine delegation.

From midnight on there was no cessation in the influx of both knights and other visitors. The reception committee was kept busy all the time and the latter part of the night was as lively as in the first.

Between midnight and 9 o'clock this morning the following arrivals were noted: Conneaut, O.; Providence, R. I.; Cleveland, Norwalk, O.; Grangeton, Mont.; Pennsylvania Grand commandery, Bethlehem, Pa.; Bloomington, Ill.; Lehigh Valley, Pa.; Topeka, Ks.; Illinois Grand commandery; Richmond, Indianapolis, Knightstown, Ind.; Mt. Vernon, O.; Dallas, Palestine, El Paso, Paris, Tex.; Lincoln, Mt. Elias, Hodgredge, Neb.; Cincinnati, O.; Elkhart, Ind.; Milan, Mo.; Marysville, Ky.; Charleston, W. Va.; Rock Island, Sterling, Galesburg, Aurora, Ill.; Dayton and Sidney, O.

SHOT BY TOUGHS.

New Orleans, Aug. 8.—Corporal John Fitzgerald was shot in the back and fatally wounded by one of a gang of young hoodlums while trying to make an arrest last night. The gang was making night hideous and the police seemed unable to quiet them. Fitzgerald's assailant escaped and is unknown.

FROM THE FAR SOUTH

More Trouble Brewing in Bolivia.

The Charges Against Balmaceda's Government.

The Document Said to be a Masterpiece of Constitutional Jurisprudence—General Mention.

New York, Aug. 8.—The Herald's Valparaiso special says official telegrams received at Santiago state that Gen. Camacho started a revolution at Oruro, Bolivia, and the Bolivian government, to suppress the uprising, arrested Camacho and 16 deputies supposed to be in favor of the movement and deported them all to the Chilian port of Antitogasta.

All the cities of the republic have been declared in a state of siege and congress has been summoned to sit at once and to declare Baptista president.

It is believed that Camacho will renew his attempt to gain control of the government.

The Herald's correspondent learns that Chile has decided to grant the request of the United States government to appoint commissioners to sit at Washington and act conjointly with commissioners of the United States to arbitrate all American claims against Chile. The Chilean government, however, requires six months to make the necessary arrangements.

United States Minister Egan has announced that he intends to leave Chile by the end of the present month.

The memorial containing the charges against Balmaceda's ministry was presented to the senate on Friday and discussed Saturday. It is a lengthy and exhaustive indictment.

The political events of Balmaceda's administration are recited at length. They are followed by legal and philosophical arguments in regard to the constitutional rights of the country.

Among the charges against the ministers are that they prevented public meetings, suppressed the liberty of speech, ordered the search of houses by force, extorted money by violence, destroyed valuable industrial property, imprisoned citizens, many of whom were tortured, laid hold of the public treasury and wasted 80,000,000 pesos; raised a large army by violent means, caused the loss of 100,000 Chileans on the battlefield and shot down men without legal form.

The document is said to be a masterpiece of constitutional jurisprudence and is highly praised. The senate has not yet fixed a day for a decision on the charges.

It is probable that Captain Marino Jorpa, of the navy, who defended Iqueque against Robles, who commanded the Balmacedist forces, will be appointed intendente of the province of Tarapaca.

The funeral of Senor Donoso was celebrated with much pomp in the presence of great crowds at the church of the Espirito Santo, where the body was buried. His death is greatly regretted by foreigners here.

The Herald correspondent at Buenos Ayres says the negotiations looking toward an agreement between President Saenz Pena and the radicals have been discontinued. Robberies and forgeries have been discovered in the bureau of immigration. Locusts have appeared in some sections of the republic and it is feared will do much damage to crops.

Deocleio Gorcia is dead.

Great vigilance is being displayed in the different departments of the city. Suspicions have been aroused that a revolt is not improbable in the near future and the authorities intend to be prepared to meet it.

The Herald's correspondent at Montevideo says the president of Uruguay is closely guarded by soldiers and the troops have been ordered to their barracks.

News comes from Rio Janerio, Brazil, that President Peixotto has signed the law granting amnesty to the revolutionists. A bill allowing the immigration of coolies has also been signed by the president.

POOL SELLING LEGAL.

Important Decision Rendered in Chicago.

Judge Kettelle Holds That the Law of 1887, Legalizing Pools, is Constitutional.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Judge Kettelle, this morning, handed down his opinion in the cases of E. A. Fisher and F. A. McAvoy, the Garfield park bookmakers, who were arrested on a test case last week. He decided that the famous state law of 1887 permitting pool selling was constitutional, and that, therefore, the city had no right to arrest the bookmakers.

It is considered probable that the club will keep right on racing, though as Mayor Washburne has refused them a license they can be daily arrested for running their place. It is said, however, that the proprietors will gladly pay the daily fine for the privilege of keeping open.

WILL INVESTIGATE.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 8.—There has been issued a proclamation authorizing the commissioners appointed to inquire into the charges of political corruption preferred against Sir Adolphe Caron, to summon and examine witnesses on oath, so as to prove the truth or falsity of the charges.

BOLL WORM.

Salado, Tex., Aug. 8.—Reports of the boll worm still continue to come in. One planter has offered a hundred acres of cotton for $1 an acre. Many planters are completely ruined.

DR. CHESTER DEAD.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The Rev. Dr. Albert Tracy Chester died yesterday. He was 80 years old.

BLAZE IN BALTIMORE.

Two Hundred Thousand Dollars in Damage in a Few Hours.

Baltimore, Aug. 8.—At 8:15 this morning fire was discovered in the large four-story furniture factory of John Chatterton & Co., No. 12 South Frederick street. Three alarms were quickly sent out and nearly the whole city fire department was soon upon the scene.

By 9 o'clock the flames had enveloped the whole of the Chatterton building and communicated to Green & Co.'s "Hope Brass works," at No. 15. The roof of No. 17, occupied by Oppenheimer & Co. as a solder factory and warehouse, also caught. Fleischman & Co.'s building, No. 11, was also soon ablaze, and Schlegel's orchestrian hall, Nos. 5, 7, and 9, were also afire.

By 10:30 the fire was gotten under control and a careful estimate places the loss at $200,000, with an insurance of about $75,000.

MANY MILLIONS.

A Lawsuit for English Property Finally Settled.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 8.—One of the oldest lawsuits in the English courts, and probably one involving the most money, is about to be settled. The suit involves the claims of rival heirs to the estate of Sir Andrew Chadwick, and which was valued at over five and a half million dollars in 1768, the property consisting principally of real estate. Nearly all of the land is located in London, and the increase in values in the last century and a quarter has brought the value of the property up to an enormous figure. The lucky claimant is Cornelius Chadwick, of 207 Fifth street, who is the eldest son of the late Thomas Chadwick, and the leading heir-at-law.

LABOR TROUBLES.

Miners to go on a Strike for Recognition.

Fairmont, W. Va., Aug. 8.—Three thousand miners in this portion of the Monongahela valley will begin a strike to-day to force recognition of their labor organization.

The operators declare they will close their mines permanently if necessary to win the struggle. Considerable dissatisfaction exists among the union miners of the Kanawha valley and it is probable that the strike will extend to that section, when 10,000 men will be affected.

DID NOT ELOPE.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 8.—The reported elopement of Ferdinand Ward and a daughter of C. A. Pelton is denied by members of Miss Pelton's family. All members of Mr. Pelton's family are at home except the eldest daughter, who is visiting a lady, a friend, in Massachusetts.

THE DEACON CASE.

Divorce Proceedings Called in the Court.

The French Government Placed in a Peculiar Position by the Trial.

Paris, Aug. 8.—The prosecution instituted by Edward Parker Deacon against his wife, charging her with adultery with M. Abeille, for killing whom Mr. Deacon is undergoing imprisonment at Nice, was brought up in court to-day.

The animosity of the French authorities against Deacon was at once made apparent. The case has put them in an embarrassing position, as should Mrs. Deacon be convicted, the conviction would be a vindication of Mr. Deacon and a decision virtually that he was justified in the act for which the French authorities had obtained his conviction.

The public prosecutor said he would take no part in the case and that Mr. Deacon would be better to lay the case before the court himself.

The attorney general said that in his view there is not sufficient ground for presuming that Mrs. Deacon had committed adultery. The case was then postponed until October.

MEXICAN BONDS.

For the First Time in the History of the Country They Sell at Par.

City of Mexico, Aug. 8.—The good credit of Mexico was never more thoroughly demonstrated than it has been in a loan which has just been placed.

For the first time in the history of the country Mexican bonds have been placed at par.

The loan, which is for six hundred thousand pounds, was taken by English and French capitalists and is payable in two years.

It was made necessary by bad crops and the high rate of exchange caused by the low price of silver.

GONE TO INDIANA.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 8.—Hon. and Mrs. Adlai Stevenson left this morning for Indianapolis, where Mr. Stevenson has business that will keep him for several days. Just when he will leave and where he will go from there has not been determined.

COLLISION.

Bellaire, O., Aug. 8.—B. & O. freight train 253, eastbound, and engine 1717, westbound, collided this morning at 7:30 o'clock at the east end of the bridge, badly wrecking both engines and cars. John Lovejoy, brakeman, was fatally injured, and Thomas Feeney, brakeman, severely hurt.

A TRIBUTE TO AMERICUS.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 8.—John Boyd Thatcher, commissioner from New York state to the world's Columbian exposition, said that he thought a tribute might be appropriately paid to the memory of Americus Vespucius by opening the exposition on the 5th day of May, 1893.

CHOLERA CASES.

Moscow, Aug. 8.—Ten new cases of cholera have occurred here and yesterday there were seven deaths. There is no business doing at Nishni Novgorod. The government officials in the country are giving the peasants boiled water and red wine to drink.

STRIKERS HOPEFUL.

Pittsburg, Aug. 8.—The union mill assert that the breaking of the Duquesne strike will not effect them in any manner as their coming out on strike did not benefit them. All the strikers are hopeful and have plenty of funds.

OCEAN MARINE.

London, Aug. 8.—The steamer British Princess, which left Philadelphia for Liverpool July 27, has arrived at Queenstown.

New York, Aug. 8.—Arrived—Norwegian from Glasgow.

NEW COAL FIELDS.

London, Aug. 8.—A new coal field with an ascertained area of one thousand acres has been discovered at Ashton-under-Lyne, Lancashire. Coal was already plentiful in that vicinity.

WILLIAM WHITE DEAD.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 8.—William White, Grand Secretary of the Odd Fellows of the United States, died of heart disease yesterday. He was 75 years old.

DID NOT STRIKE.

Denver, Aug. 8.—The demands of the Union Pacific telegraph operators were conceded and the threatened strike was averted.

FOOLED WITH A BABY.

Another Eva Hamilton Case Reported.

Ezra Park Foot was the Victim this Time,

And Florence Miami-Blood Was the Young Woman Who Successfully Roped Him In.

New York, Aug. 8.—Ezra Park Foot, a young man of 26, who lives with his parents in St. Paul, has obtained a divorce within a month from his wife, who he had found to be an adventuress who had tricked him very much as Eva Mann did Robert Ray Hamilton.

For six months after her marriage Mrs. Foot moved in St. Paul's best society. Her name is Florence Miami-Blood, and she met Mr. Flood in Philadelphia several years ago.

They fell in love with each other, but after a time the young man stopped calling. The woman arranged a scheme then by which she could get a hold on Mr. Foot.

In December, 1890, she came to New York and introduced herself to Mrs. Elise Landau, of 110 East Forty-fifth street, as Mrs. Foot, and said she wanted to adopt a baby. In answer to the advertisement which Mrs. Landau published Mrs. Theresa Campbell, of 1150 Stebbins street, in the annexed district, offered her three-months-old baby, Willie, for adoption.

Mrs. Foot took the child away with her to Lancaster, Pa., where Mr. Foot was, and told him the child was his. She demanded that Foot marry her at once, and to avoid scandal he consented.

The wedding occurred at Camden, December 11, 1890. Mr. Foot took his newly made wife to St. Paul and introduced her to his father, Silas Foot, a retried leather dealer. She was welcomed as one of the household, and her deception probably would have not been discovered if Mrs. Campbell, the mother of the child, had not grown uneasy about her offspring.

She had expected to hear how her child was getting along, but no word was sent her. She tried several times to get information from Mrs. Landau, but the midwife would give her no clew to the boy's whereabouts.

Superintendent Jenkins, of Mr. Gerry's society, advised Mrs. Campbell to put the matter into the hands of Lawyer W. Travers Jerome. Mr. Jerome sent for Mrs. Landau to call at his office. He read the riot act to Mrs. Landau when she refused to give the name of the woman who had the child, and the next day she sent a note with this written on it: "Mrs. E. P. Foot, St. Paul."

From a St. Paul directory Mr. Jerome found that Silas B. Foot was a wholesale leather dealer there and he wrote a long letter to him, giving all the facts in the case he knew. Fortunately he had written to the father-in-law of the Blood woman. Old Foot saw through the whole scheme of the adventuress at once, but he wanted to be sure of his ground, so he came on to New York with Willie's picture in his valise.

Mrs. Campbell unhesitatingly picked out her child's picture from a number shown to her by Mr. Foot. The old gentleman started back for St. Paul in a hurry, but his daughter-in-law had been warned in the meantime and had left with the baby for the east, in spite of her husband's protest.

Mrs. Campbell gave up all hope of finding her child, but an investigation in Philadelphia soon put Mr. Jerome on the track of Mrs. Foot. She was found with the child at the house of a relative, at 4541 Saybrook avenue, and finally agreed to give up the child. Now Mrs. Campbell has her child again, and Ezra Foot has obtained a divorce. The woman has disappeared.

FROM THE THRONE.

Royal Address to the New Parliament.

The Queen is Very Guarded in Her Statements and Shows Doubts of the Future.

London, Aug. 8.—There was a full attendance in parliament to-day to listen to the opening speech and the real beginning of the struggle between the parties. Keir Hardie, the labor member who has been making himself conspicuous by his oddities of dress and behavior, was less obtrusive to-day, as he is beginning to comprehend that his queer conduct has aroused general disgust instead of the admiration he anticipated. The other labor members avoid him and if he had any chance of exercising influence, it is utterly gone. The conservatives did not appear at all despondent. They are preparing for an earnest struggle and mean rather to force the fighting. The liberals on the other hand prefer to do as little talking as possible and push the work as rapidly as possible.

The government address to the newly organized parliament is as follows:

"We have to inform you by command of Her Majesty that the present parliament has been assembled in obedience to Her Majesty's proclamation of June 28, 1892, by which the late parliament was dissolved.

"Previous to that dissolution the business of the session was completed, and it is, therefore, not necessary that parliament continue in session at an unusual period of the year for the transaction of financial or legislative business.

It is Her Majesty's hope that when you meet again at the customary season you will again direct your attention to measures of social and domestic improvement in the path of useful and beneficent legislation which has been so judiciously followed in previous sessions."

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR

Makes His Annual Report to the President.

The Work of the Year Carefully Reviewed.

Recommendations by Mr. Carter Based Upon His Observations While in Office.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The annual report of the secretary of the interior of the operations of the general land offices of the fiscal year ended June 30, 1892, was made public to-day.

"A careful reading of this report," said Commissioner Carter, "will demonstrate that the liberal and just policy toward the settlers upon the public domain, adopted by Secretary Noble at the beginning of this administration, has been productive of very satisfactory and beneficent results.

"I felt justified," he continued, "in predicting in my annual report of last year, that with the force then at command, the business of this bureau would be brought up abreast with current work by the end of the fiscal year just closed. It is gratifying to me now to be able to report to you that a literal fulfillment of that prediction has been fully consummated.

"In order that the magnitude of the work done during the last fiscal year may readily be comprehended, and the results accomplished fully appreciated, I feel warranted in referring to and discussing briefly that policy that governed and controlled the business of this office under the last administration from 1885 to 1889.

"Commissioner Sparks, in his annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885, said: 'At the outset of my administration I was confronted with the overwhelming evidence that the public domain was being made a prey of unscrupulous speculation and the worst forms of land monopoly through systematic fraud carried on and consummated under public land laws.'

"He further stated in the same report, in discussing the subject of commuted homesteads, that the proportion of fraudulent entries of this kind could be more nearly estimated at the whole number of such entries than in any other manner; that the average proportion of fraudulent pre-emption filings to the number of filings made and relinquished should be estimated in round numbers at exactly 100 per cent., and that 90 per cent. of all timber culture industries were fraudulent. Having become wrongfully imbued with the idea that nearly all, or at least a very large proportion of entries made upon the public domain were fraudulent, and that the great body of well-disposed settlers were unscrupulous speculators, it is not surprising that Commissioner Sparks, on April 3, 1885, issued an order suspending action on all entries (except on certain scrip locations and on private cash entries) in the whole of Colorado except the Ute reservation, and in all of Dakota, Idaho, Utah, Washington, New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming, and portions of Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota.

"The detrimental effect of this and other similar sweeping orders, and of the mistaken impression and policy which prompted them, upon the business of this office, was very great, and as a consequence this administration on assuming the reigns of government in 1889, was confronted by a land office greatly demoralized in all its ramifications. Injustice, or a denial of justice, under the machinery of the law, was its dominant feature. The settler who had honestly and laboriously, and at much hazard and heavy expense, complied in good faith with all the requirements of the laws, outraged and indignant at the multiplied injuries inflicted on him by mal-administration, demanded a patent, a title, to the land he had, by settlement, cultivation and compliance with the law, fully earned. Thus, by reason of this erroneous and mistaken policy, the legitimate channels of business in this office had become clogged and by reason of wrongful delays, a vast amount of work had accumulated, there being at the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1888, 350,953 entries of all kinds pending, or awaiting consideration. Under these circumstances a change of policy was deemed necessary. Hence, shortly after March 4, 1889, a new administrative policy, based on a liberal and enlightened interpretation of the public land laws, was adopted by you and has been continued during the intervening fiscal years. Under this new policy settlers are presumed to be honest and well-disposed toward the government, and laws and public business have been expedited with marked beneficent results.

On March 3, 1891, a law was passed entitled "An act to repeal the timber culture law and for other purposes," in which congress manifested its approval of the new policy. Under and by virtue of section 7 of that law, large numbers of cases, long suspended on the merest suspicion of fraud, or under harsh technical rulings, have been and are being passed to patent in a manner which, while greatly facilitating business, also supplies ample safeguards against all possible frauds.

"In virtue of this marked and beneficial change of policy, and under the favorable legislation mentioned, the largest number of accumulated entries above stated, together with an addition of 318,016 entries received since the present policy was inaugurated, had, on June 30, 1892, been carefully considered and proper action taken thereon."

Comparative tables accompanying the report show an excess during the four fiscal years ending June 30, 1892, over the four years ending June 30, 1888, in the number and acreage of agricultural patents issued of nearly 145 per cent. substantially clearing the docket and leaving the office on July 1, 1892, virtually free to attend to current business as it arises.

As to mineral and coal patents, the report shows an excess, under a similar comparison, in the number of mineral patents issued, of 98 per cent., and in the number of coal patents issued of 224 per cent., clearing to the people and the states and nation millions of permanent wealth.

During the period from 1889 to 1892, there were 8,425,395 acres of the public domain surveyed, as against 2,715,302 during the preceding four years. During the last fiscal year the cash sales according to the report aggregated 1,571,478 acres, the principal item of which was 913,789 acres which were entered under the pre-emption law. The total acreage disposed of during the year was 13,664,019. Three thousand two hundred and forty-two mineral and mill site patents were issued during the year, as against 1,792 during the year 1891. The report shows that the vacant public lands in the United States aggregate 567,586,783 acres.

The commissioner recommends a liberal policy in reference to surveys of the public lands in all of the states.

A general law on the subject of the public forests is, the report says, unquestionably demanded, which shall make adequate provision in respect to both forest reservations and the cutting and removal of timber to supply the public necessities and shall also repeal all existing acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions thereof. As regards the leading features of such an act, he is of the opinion that the same should be in line with the following general suggestions:

Provisions should be made for the immediate reservation of all public lands bearing forests or timber except for entry under the homestead and mining laws.

Individual settlers, farmers, locaters of mines should be authorized to procure from the public timber lands such timber as may be imperatively needed to supply their actual, personal necessities for fuel, buildings, fences and the improvement of their claims.

The cutting or removing of public timber should be prohibited for purposes of transportation or exportation or for sale or disposal, or for any other use or purpose whatever, except as above stated, or under laws enacted and rules and regulations prescribed by the local legislature of the state or territory in which the timber is located, and unless permit to cut timber has first been procured from the secretary of the interior.

A penalty should be provided for wasting or destroying timber growing or being on public lands, whether by fire, felling or otherwise, with the provision attached that of all sums collected as fines, penalties or damages under the act, one-half shall be paid to the informer, if any, and the other half to the school fund of the county or counties in which the offense was committed.

In the opinion of the commissioner an act of this nature will effectually dispose of all material questions relating to the forest reservations and the cutting and removing of timber from public lands and render further legislation on the subject unnecessary.

An interesting question has been presented to the treasury department in regard to the steamships City of New York and City of Paris, the owners of which are preparing to have them documented as American vessels in accordance with the provisions of a special act of congress granting them that privilege under certain conditions. The steamship company is anxious to retain the present complement of officers of those vessels, most of whom, however, are of foreign nationality, and in order to bring them within the law requiring vessels of the United States to be officered exclusively by citizens of the United States, the companies took steps to secure their speedy naturalization. This, however, is a very slow process. The officers in question have already taken out their first papers, but have to serve out the full probationary period before they become full-fledged citizens. Leaving out the question of their financial ability to remain idle during that period, the company itself is unwilling to sacrifice them for the untried men of American citizenship. Accordingly, as a test case, application was made to the treasury department for the retention of Capt. Watkins as master of the City of Paris during his probational period of naturalization. The commissioner of navigation, to whom the matter was referred, has replied that the law is obligatory to the citizenship of masters of United States vessels and that in such case his citizenship is not established until he has filled all the requirements of the laws. Unless this decision is reversed the steamship company will have to secure a new set of officers for the two steamships, or else delay the documenting of the vessels under United States laws until the present officers can legally serve.

FREE SONS OF ISRAEL.

Important Meeting Held in New York City.

John Harberger Talks Plainly Concerning the People Who Are Retarding Jewish Progress.

New York, Aug. 8.—Julius Harberger, grand master of the Independent Order Sons of Israel, addressed a meeting of the order here Sunday, and said among other things:

"In 1880, when the religious crusades in Roumania and inImperial Russia took place against the Hebrews, emigration numbering thousands set in toward American shores. With the yearly increase, numbers of anarchists, and nihilists, made so through a brutal government, came over with these unfortunates and preached their damnable and pernicious doctrines. They have forgotten the essence of the teachings of their fathers, that Judaism is a religion of law and order.

"The dastardly attempt made upon the life of the manager of the Carnegia works at Homestead has shown the effect of the pernicious doctrines that have been taught to many of these aliens who land on our shores without the first conception of the duties of an American citizen, and the liberality afforded to every individual under our form of government.

"I am in favor of rigidly enforcing the return of all aliens who are known as nihilists, dynamiters and anarchists. Our fing is broad enough to embrace men of all creeds, colors and nationalities, but when they come here with sword, we have no room for them. As we guard our ports against cholera and disease, so we should ward off the approach of moral contagion or political disease."

BLAZE IN NEW YORK.

A Hundred Thousand Dollars Damage.

The Large Wholesale Drug House of Tarrant & Co. Ruined by an Explosion.

New York, Aug. 8.—About 8:20 this morning an explosion occurred on the third floor of the large wholesale drug warehouse of Tarrant & Co., at No. 278, 280, and 282 Greenwich street.

The explosion was quickly followed by flames which seemed to gain such speedy headway that by the time the firemen arrived the whole center part of the building seemed on fire.

By 10:30 the fire seemed under control and a careful estimation of the loss made by some of the officials placed the loss at $100,00, fully insured.

Much inconvenience was caused to thousands of uptown residents by the necessary stoppage of trains on the Ninth avenue elevated railway. The trains were blocked from Warren to Fifty-ninth street.

WILL BE PLENTY OF FUN

Extensive Program at the Coney Island Club.

Three Pugilistic Events to be Settled in the Ring.

General Sporting News from All Over the Land, Gathered for Bee Readers.

New York, Aug. 8.—The Coney Island Athletic club will hold a pugilistic carnival this evening that is attracting almost as much attention among local sports as will the great events of next September at New Orleans. It was only by dint of much hard work that six such skilled knights of the square ring as George Siddons and Eddie Pierce, Charley Kammer and Joe Sullivan, and Billy Plimmer and Jerry Barnett were retained for a single evening.

According to the original program Billy Plimmer, the 110-pound champion, was to have a go with Dolly Lyons, but the latter backed out. It was then determined to give Tim Murphy, the ex-champion amateur bantan weight of the Amateur Athletic association, a chance to try his luck in the professional ring, but he also declined the honor, and Jerry Barnett was finally induced to have an eight-round go with Plimmer.

Barnett has never trained for a fight before, but he evidently has a wholesome respect for his present opponent, and has been working industriously for the past few weeks. They will fight at 115 pounds.

The second fight on the program promises to be a knock-out, notwithstanding that it is restricted to eight rounds. Kammer is the young man who disposed of Jim Butler, Nick Callan, and Mike McAuliffe in such easy fashion, and who was scheduled to lower Pat Cahill's colors.

Sullivan is also a famous fighter, and has so far been simply invincible in the welter weight class. Sullivan is cleverer than Kammer in some respects, and is a stiff hitter. They will weigh in at 154 pounds.

The piece de resistance of the night, of course, will be the finish fight between Eddie Pierce and George Siddons, who recently fought Van Heest a draw of 40 rounds. Pierce has been most successful in the amateur ring, and in his first professional fight against Billy Kenny showed such form that many experts, including Tom O'Rourke and George Dixon declared him the coming fighter.

The western man, however, is favored in the betting on account of his experience. Should the New Yorker win there will be any amount of money from Wall street ready to make a match between him and any 118-120 pound man in the country.

HEAVY DAMAGE.

Disastrous Blaze in an Electric Light Works.

Victoria B. C., Aug. 8.—A supposed incendiary fire started yesterday morning in the upper shops of the National Tramway and Electric Light company which quickly spread to the power house adjoining and in two hours the entire plant, valued at $200,000, was completely destroyed.

The insurance does not exceed $50,000. The flying embers started another fire in the Icelandic settlement and some private residences were destroyed. Loss $10,000.

DIPHTHERIA.

Carrollton, O., Aug. 8.—Diphtheria is raging at Dellroy and Sherrodsville, two mining towns near this city. Fifteen deaths have already resulted and twenty new cases were reported this morning. The state board of health has been notified.

Mrs. Annie W. Jordan

Of 165 Tremont St., Boston, was in very poor health, from bad circulation of the blood, having rush of blood to the head, numb spells, and chills, and the physician said the veins were almost bursting all over her body. A collision with a double runner brought on neuralgia of the liver, causing great suffering. She could not take the doctor's medicine, so took and soon fully recovered, and now enjoys perfect health. She says she could praise Hood's Sarsaparilla all day and then not say enough.

HOOD'S PILLS are hand made, and are perfect in composition, proportion and appearance.

THE POISONER ON TRIAL.

Thomas Neill Cream Before the Court Again.

The Countess Russell Gives Her Testimony.

Experts Testify to the Amount of Strychnine Found in the Dead Woman's Body.

London, Aug. 8.—The Countess Russell was a witness to-day in the examination of Thomas Neill Cream, alias Thomas Reill, accused of the murder of Matilda Clover by poisoning with strychnine. The Countess Russell was examined by Mr. Gill.

"At the end of the last year were you stopping at the Savoy hotel?"

"Yes, I was there in September. I remember a letter coming to me by post which I opened and read. I don't know whether it was addressed to the Savoy hotel, but it reached me there. I showed the letter to Mr. George Lewis and sent it to Scotland Yard."

"In that letter was your husband accused of the murder of a woman named Clover?"

"Yes. An address in Lambeth Road was mentioned. I can't say that the accusation was that my husband had poisoned the woman by strychnine, but by some kind of poison. The woman's name was Matilda. The writer of the letter offered to assist me in obtaining a divorce and said he would have my husband hanged for the murder of Matilda Clover."

Thomas Stevenson, M. D., lecturer on jurisprudence at Guy's hospital and one of the analysists to the home office, testified that he conducted an analysis on the body of the woman Clover on the order of the treasury and had drawn up a report. The document was read.

After enumerating the steps to identify the body on exhumation is declared that strychnine was found in th estomach, liver, chest and brain and in the fluid; and that a frog was killed with the poison so obtained, exhibiting all the symptoms of strychnine poisoning. The amount of strychnine which I obtained, the doctor concluded, points to the administration of a fatal dose of strychnine.

Dr. Stevenson added that any portion of the strychnine unabsorbed would remain in the stomach.

Mr. Gill then read the evidence which described the condition in which Miss Clover was found on the morning of her death and the symptoms she displayed and asked witness whether these were consistent with strychnine poisoning.

Witness—"Not only are these consistent with but they point to strychnine poisoning. The symtoms were not those of delirium tremens, but of tetanic convulsions, following on strychnine poisoning. I poisoning these convulsive attacks usually continue up to the time of death. During the interval the person might be conscious and capable of conveying any statement she desired to make. Persons in this state are generally apprehensive of death and think they are going to die before the first convulsion."

"And the fact that Miss Clover asked for her child as she thought she was going to die is consistent with the idea?"

"Quite so."

"What quantity is sufficient to cause death?"

"The smallest is about half a grain. One grain is usually a fatal dose."

"Does the length of time before death ensues differ in certain cases?"

"Yes, it depends upon how the poison is taken. In pills or capsules the action would, of course, be retarded, but I should expect symptoms in an hour, assuming that the poison was taken in a fatal quantity. Exceptionally longer time has elapsed. It would also be regulated by the condition of the stomach. The tincture of nuxvomica contains less than half a grain to the liquid ounce. There would be sufficient strychnine in two ounces of the tincture of nuxvomica to make a fatal dose."

Neill was again remanded.

The Circular Held Up.

Food Commissioner McNeal has been making all sorts of threats about what he proposed to do, etc. In the meantime some of the firms applied for an injunction at Columbus to hold him up a little, and they have been successful.

Judge Pugh, in common pleas court, granted an injunction in the case of B. F. Chandler & Co., of Cincinnati, vinegar makers, against Mr. McNeal, which is very important, in that it stops the commissioner in his present onslaught on alleged impure foods. It enjoins him from publishing his circular of alleged impure foods. Judge Pugh holds that it is not the right way to proceed; that if goods are impure and illegal he should prosecute the producers.

The Railroad Telegraphers.

Toledo division, Order of Railroad Telegraphers, were very successful with their railroad men's outing at Manitou beach up in Michigan. Three hundred railroad men with their wives and families went up from Toledo, and as two other trains were run for the same event from other points, there were at least 2,000 people at the beach. The grand officers of the various railroad organizations did not show up, as they are busy with labor troubles elsewhere. A good quiet time was had, however, and the day's outing was voted a success. The telegraphers and their friends were treated in the best possible manner by the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw company.

Dr. Myers, who projected the scheme of organization, has not arrived yet, but is expected this afternoon.

A Singular Case.

About 6:30 last evening Humane Agent France was sent for to attend a little girl found wandering around on Dorr street, near the fair grounds. When he arrived he found a crowd of men and women gathered about the girl, who had been crying. The bystanders told him that about three hours before they had seen a young man, tall, slim and red-faced come out of a clump of underbrush at the side of the road and go into Benning's saloon. While he was in there the little girl came out of the brush crying. Some of the people went over and talked to her, but she refused to tell them anything. The man, coming out of the saloon, and seeing people around the child, started off toward Auburndale. They finally phoned to the police station, and the chief told them to call Mr. France, as he lived nearby. When Mr. France arrived the man had been gone three hours, and had a good chance to get away. Besides a good many men in the city would answer to the description—young, tall, slim, red-faced man, wearing dark clothes and dark soft hat. The girl told Mr. France that she lived on Vance street. That the man had asked her to go with him, and had taken her to the place and made improper proposals which she rejected, whereupon he struck her and started for the saloon telling her to wait for him. Mr. France found her home neat and her parents respectable German people. They had not seen the girl since 2 o'clock, and it was then 7. Mr. France rebuked them for their carelessness and they promised to look after her. The detectives are after him, and he will be made an example of if caught.

The board of reviston will hardly undertake to whitewash Street Commissioner Bower.

The republicans having a majority of council a joint session will be held to-night to help Mayor Emmick fix a few things to His Nibs' royal taste.

What's the matter with American tin? the tin-plate factory in Anderson, Indiana, which started with a flourish when the McKinley law protected the industry, has gone to the wall under the sheriff's hammer. Again let us inquire, what is the matter with American tin?

When democrats in congress voted against the world's fair appropriation they were not representing the democratic party. That is plain from the tone of the great majority of democratic newspapers, which may be taken as the best exponent of party choice and of public sentiment.

The Columbus Dispatch is making a good fight against that bumptious Glenwood Heights club that is going to withdraw its support from the republican party if democrats are not turned out of places in the Columbus Insane asylum. Perhaps this is the kind of work the New York organ had in mind when it said "Clubs are trump this campaign."

The dreadful accusation against Congressman Breckenridge, being copied from one partisan organ into another, is his saying: "I am in favor of free trade; the Mills bill is a move in that direction, therefore I shall vote for it." To make this more effective the words of the immortal Garfield might be added. Garfield said: "Every revision of the tariff should be in the direction of free trade."

As a rule, Americans are not afraid of freedom. Free speech, a free press, the free ballot, free church, free state, free air and free conscience are all ethics of the one constitutional creed. But free trade is worse than rank poison; the mention of it makes men froth at the mouth. To be a free trader is as dreadful as it once was to be an abolitionist. Prejudice is mighty, but the truth ultimately prevails.

The congress just adjourned should be judged by the things it attempted to do rather than by its accomplishments. Every bill passed by the house for the relief of the people or for their benefit in any particular, was promptly pigeon-holed in the senate. The house was handicapped in the start by the appropriations made absolutely necessary by the legislation of its predecessor. With a republican senate to block every measure, the representatives of the people were virtually handtied so far as accomplishment was concerned.

The Chicago Herald has analyzed the several votes in congress on the world's fair appropriation and finds tht all the negative votes were cast by democrats and alliance members. This is a singular thing which has not been satisfactorily explained. If there is any politics in the question the people do not know it, though democratic congressmen did appear in the opposition as obstructionists. On the final vote two Ohio democrats, Donovan and Pearson, voted against the measure. The Bee would like to print their reasons for so doing. The great constituency of the Bee, which includes many counties, would like to hear from Mr. Donovan on this subject.

We are told, in many prints, that "Dr. Talmage has promised to cultivate an increased respect and veneration for the czar on the part of the American people, on his return to this country." We hope the American divine with the wide aperture in his countenance has not been posing before the czar of all the Russias as the Pope of all the Americas. "The American people" had a pretty good understanding of Russian affairs from various authentic sources before the Talmage episode, and it is quite probable that there will not occur any "increased verenation for the Czar" because his mightiness deigned to look down from his high perch on T. DeWitt Talmage, D. D.

A FOOLISH FASHION.

One practice of Americans might well be reformed. It was introduced to deceive, but it long ago ceased to fulfill its mission—the practice of "claiming everything." It has been a part of political partyism since the famous dispatch of Chandler to his conspirators in Louisiana and Florida, in 1876, to claim the states and then steal them to substantiate the claim, and has grown to be a part of all conflicts. Just now we are being told that the iron and steel mills of Pennsylvania have all the men they want, and, according to declaration, the mills have been ready to start up for a fortnight or more. Newspaper headlines a week ago said "the strike is over." Yet, at the end of the seventh week, the works are under the arms of the soldiers, the machinery is still, the boycott is spreading; the three-dollar a month huts on shanty hill are emptied of their old tenants and a new set of Hungarians are huddled in, but the places of the skilled workmen, who met Mr. Frick as the deadly foe of organized labor, have not been filled, the strike is not ended, and the managers have not the men they want. It would be a good thing for a good many newspapers and a good many speech-makers to simply state facts. People are not so easily deceived as is imagined, and the deceiver soon loses his power to harm anybody but himself.

NOW FOR KANSAS CITY.

Biennial Meeting of the K. P. Supreme Lodge,

And the Encampment of the Uniform Rank—Great Trip, Great Sights, and There Will be Great Attendance.

The Knights Templar are now in the midst of their triennial celebration at Denver, which will close this week, and then eyes of secret society men will be turned toward Kansas City, where one week from to-morrow will open the biennial session of the order's supreme governing body. Three thousand tents have already been put up, and it is thought this number will not be sufficient to accommodate those who will attend. Ten thousand dollars have been hung up in prizes for the visiting divisions, over 40 of whom have entered in the competitive drills, including Toledo division, under command of Capt. Austin, jr. The itinerary has been arranged for the trip, and a circular issued by Col. Bryant and Adjutant Yonker gives this information:

The Sixth regiment Uniform Rank, K. of P., having completed arrangements with the Wabash railroad for their transportation to and from the biennial encampment to be held at Kansas City, week of August 22, all divisions, members and their friends will rendezvous at Toledo, O., Saturday, August 20, 1892.

A special train, consisting of coaches, reclining chair cars and sleepers, will leave Union depot, Toedo, Ohio, at 5:20 p. m. Saturday, August 20, arriving at St. Louis the next morning at 7:45. The day will be spent in this delightful southern city viewing its many interesting sights and institutions. The Sir Knights of St. Louis have made all arrangements to entertain the Sixth regiment while guests of their city.

The special train will leave St. Louis via Wabash railroad at 8:35 p. m. August 21, arriving at Kansas City at 7:00 a. m. Monday, August 22.

Returning the special train will leave Kansas City, Thursday, August 25, at 6:20 p. m., via Wabash railroad, arriving at Chicago Friday, August 26, at 9:00 a. m., where the day will be spent viewing the world's fair buildings, etc.

Leave Chicago at 10:30 p. m. Friday, August 26, via Wabash railroad, arriving at Toledo 8:00 a. m. Saturday, August 27.

The Sixth regiment band of Tiffin, O., will accompany the special train the entire trip rendering sweet strains of music, enlivening the trip materially.

Those desiring sleeping car accommodations should call on or write to P. E. Dombaugh, Passenger and Ticket Agent Wabash railroad, Toledo, O., on or before Wednesday, August 17. The berth rate to Kansas City will be $4.00.

The trip covers 1,500 miles through the gardens of Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, crossing the Mississippi valley into the metropolis of the great Missouri. On Tuesday, August 23, will occur the grand parade of the uniform rank, and it is expected fully 15,000 swords will be in line.

THE WOMAN'S PLACE

Is Not at the Head or Feet, but at the Side of Man.

The Ballot in Her Hands Would Result in a Moral and Spiritual Revolution—Should Demand Her Rights.

Women, women, nothing but women, old and young, big and little, of all conditions, all ages, and all sizes. It looked as though every woman in Toledo was interested in hearing what Rev. Updike thought was her place and her power.

The ushers were women, and they performed their duties as though seating an immense audience like that was an everyday task with them.

The Ladies' quartette sang, "Waiting to Welcome Us There," and after a brief introductory address by Rev. Buckingham, Rev. Updike began his lecture. Taking his text from First Samuel, 12th chapter, 24th verse, which reads, "Only fear the Lord, and serve Him in truth with all your heart; for consider how great things He hath done for you," he said, we are dwelling in a great and awful time. The greatest age of advancement and education the world has ever known. If he could have chosen the country of his birth, he would have chosen the United States. If he could have named the state, he would have named Ohio, and of all the centuries he would prefer the nineteenth century.

But with all this progress and education, woman has been kept from occupying her proper place. She has been taught that her only mission was to be the slave of her husband and home; to patch and wash dishes and sew, and sew and patch and wash dishes. She is called the "weaker vessel," and is supposed by many to be weaker mentally than she is physically. And in spite of all the teachings of reason and common sense, there are many women to-day who believe that they should keep silent, and if they want to know anything should ask their husbands at home. Very queer advice some of them get, too. Poor Paul is misjudged and misquoted as telling women to keep still, when the fact is, he never said anything of the sort. When God made man He took the dust of the earth; but woman was made of finer material; the mechanism, the physical part of her, is perhaps not so strong, but the mind is stronger. Then, she was not made as a superior of man, or as his slave, but to be his equal, his helpmeet. On account of this old superstition, with which women themselves have become infected, women have not been making the advancement that they might have done if they had been granted their rights. Think what an influence woman now wields for good. She leads in all great moral reform movements, and the politicians cheer her on with—words. They have the money, the popularity and the slum vote. What do they care for woman's prayers and tears, as long as she is deprived of the only effective weapon, the ballot. The membership of churches number seven women to one man, and an infidel recently stated that this showed that their intellects were not as strong as men's. There are many proofs of this kind of the superior intellect of men. For instance, there are 1,600 male prisoners in the Ohio penitentiary to 40 females.

Women are all the time standing in each other's way. It is a singular fact that they are always ready to welcome the prodigal with open arms and boquets if it happens to be a man, but a poor woman receives only kicks and cuffs. Don't neglect the man; extend a helping hand when you can, but stop kicking the poor women.

Now, about keeping women silent, the apostle, nor nobody else, could do that. But she is ground down by injustice. Men say, women wouldn't know what to do with the ballot. She doesn't understand politics. Did they use that argument against the ignorant black man? Are they using it against the foreigner, who comes over here in absolute ignorance of our laws or any others? No, they are the men who are making laws for the intelligent women of America. Laws under which their boys and girls are being ruined by the tens of thousands every year. Women would use the ballot for the benefit of the home, and the betterment of society; you couldn't buy it for a quarter, nor she wouldn't ask you how to vote. She would vote for the best men and the best principles every time, and she wouldn't be afraid of the biggest man in town.

God has always honored woman. He created her a helpmeet for man, and no man is ever successful who hasn't a good wife to help and advise him. You don't hear or read much about their help. Men stand on the pinnacle of fame and say, look at us! and there is nothing heard or seen of the women who dug and delved to push them up there.

Women have only to understand their rights and insist on having them, and they can revolutionize society. Remember that you have a place to fill in society as well as in the home, and don't wait for some one else to fill it. Don't wait for your husband to consent to your doing your duty. Your duty to God is of more importance. Do it. Insist on having your rights and your proper place, and the result will be better government, better society, better homes.

Prof. Hawes sang, "Where Is My Wandering Child," and "My Mother's Prayer" very effectively.

Rev. Updike preached an impressive sermon last evening on the conversion of Saul. The meetings will continue all week.

A BLOW TO SHIPPING.

The Railroads Competing With the Great Lakes for Business—New Line of Steamers.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 8.—A local paper has the following: Preparation is being made, and the experiment will be tested during this fall and winter to deal shipping interests of the great lakes one of the soverest blows that that industry has yet received from the railroads. Apart from the package freight carried by the swift steamers there is hardly anything for vessels to take from Lake Erie to Lake Michigan and Superior excepting coal. It is at this traffic that the railroads are now casting their eyes, and an attempt to gather it in is now being prepared for. At the yard of the Craig Ship-building company in Toledo there are under construction two huge and peculiarly shaped hulls. They are 260 feet long, 52 feet beam and 19 feet deep and will cost, when completed, about $180,000 each. They are for the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan railroad, and will both be completed this fall, and it is by the aid of these that the managers of that road expect to gather in a large share of the coal and also the ore traffic which is now moved by water.

Each of the steamers will be fitted with four tracks and will be capable of carrying 24 cars. They will be operated between Frankfort, Mich., and Kewanee, Wis., a route that is 60 miles long and can be covered in six hours. The projectors of the scheme figure that cars can be taken across at a cost of $2 each, against a present cost of $7 when bulk is broken. This refers to the handling of general merchandise. But it is the coal business that the best results are looked for.

THE C., L. & W.

Wheeling & Lake Erie Company Not in the Deal,

As Stated Some Time Since—General Manager Blair Makes a Contradiction Which is Explicit.

General Manager A. G. Blair, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railway, flatly contradicts the rumor that his company has anything to do with the control of the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling. Below is his official statement, made to a Bee:

"There has been no sale of the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling road. An option has been given to New York parties to buy a controlling interest in its stock, and this option runs a certain length of time. A sum of money has been put up by these parties as a forfeit that within the given time they will either buy the property or find a purchaser. The Wheeling & Lake Erie company has not the slightest direct or indirect connection with the matter. The option has not been obtained in the interest of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railway, and this statement is absolutely and emphatically a denial that our company has anything to do with it."

AN OVERLOADED BOAT

Capsizes and Drowns Part of the Passengers.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 8.—A boat overloaded with ten Hebrew picnickers from this city, was overturned on Lee's pond, Leesville, near this city, last evening.

None of them could swim and George F. Brierly and two other young men jumped into the water and pulled all but two ashore.

The drowned are Annie Bernstein, aged 18 years, who had just come over from Poland, and was visiting here, and Ida Harris, aged 5, daughter of Daniel Harris, of Harris & Polashinski, clothing dealers.

IT WAS WAR TO DEATH.

Bloody Battle in an Indiana Saloon.

Miners Rescue a Comrade Who Was Wanted for Criminal Assault.

Petersburg, Ind., Aug. 8.—A bloody tragedy is reported from Winslow, this county. Miss Read, the daughter of a respected farmer, was assaulted by one Barnes, a coal miner. Sheriff Stillwell arrested Barnes in McCoy's saloon, when he was at once set upon by a dozen drunken miners who demanded the release of Barnes.

This was refused and a general fight ensued with knives, razors, billiard cues, etc.

Bartley Stinson, one of the miners, was cut literally to pieces, one gash being on the breast near the heart, about eight inches long, another gash longer and uglier in the chest and abdomen and still another on the back, extending beneath the arm and down the side.

His brother, Pete Stinson, had his throat cut, the gash being about six inches long and very deep, with a deep wound on his breast and one arm about half severed. Both men are fatally wounded.

Levi Read, brother to the young lady assaulted, who was assisting the sheriff, was stabbed in three places and is badly hurt.

Several others were more or less hurt in the melee, but their names are unknown. The sheriff came out with a few painful bruises. No arrests as yet have been made.

THE BIG TELEPHONE LINE

Connecting Toledo with New York and Chicago.

How the Work is Progressing from Maumee Bridge West—Two Miles a Day Completed.

Work is progressing rapidly on the big telephone line that is to connect Toledo with Chicago and New York. Gangs of men are pushing from New York, their objective point being the Maumee bridge, at which point the western gang started to work towards Chicago.

Work was commenced at Maumee bridge July 7. The line is completed from there on to Wauseon, which point was reached. The polemn go ahead and make about three miles a day. Holes are scooped out, a charge of dynamite placed therein, there is an explosion, and presto, change! the hole is dug.

Another gang of 23 men follow the pole raisers, at a rate of about two miles a day.

Eleven wires are being strung, one on top as a guard, two for telegraph and eight telephone wires, all heavy copper. The telephone wire will make connections with every town passed. There will be numerous loops connecting places a few miles away from the main line. The telegraph wires will not be tapped at any point, but will be used exclusively for messages between Chicago and New York.

From Maumee bridge the line was built across country to Delta, where the Lake Shore road was struck. The line will not follow the railroads to any great extent.

Experts say that it will be the greatest line in the country when finished.

MURDERED BY CATTLE THIEVES.

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 8.—News has been received here of the murder of David McKeller, a wealthy ranch owner, at Mesquite, a village in the state of Coahuila, Mexico. He is supposed to have been murdered by cattle thieves.

LIBBEY GLASS WORKS

Will Start Up Monday Next With Doubled Capacity.

One Hundred Men Come Here from Findlay, and the Entire Force is Doubled.

The Libbey Glass works will start up next Monday morning with twice the former supply of men and twice the capacity for output.

The Libbey institution at Findlay has closed, and all the men employed there—about one hundred—are coming here. Some have arrived, and others will be here this week.

In the blowing and cutting departments the old force of men will be largely increased.

Michael Owens, foreman of the blowing department, has returned from Findlay, as has also J. J. Lorden and others of the boys who were well and favorably known here a year or so ago.

The return of the men from Findlay means much for the business of the First ward.

MORE EVIDENCE

Discovered In the Bower Investigation Case.

Upon it Hinges Alleged Irregularities in the Infirmary Board.

It appears that one reason why the board of revision failed to meet Saturday was that further evidence has been discovered in the Bower case.

It is alleged that a Lagrange street merchant has been in receipt indirectly of $9 per week for over two years. This matter will be investigated before the board makes its final report.

Mr. Coleman has ferretted out considerable information that may lead the board to investigate the affairs of other city departments, particularly the infirmary department.

It is alleged that the infirmary people have paid $17 a hundred for meat, the market value of which was $11.

If the information secured by Mr. Coleman is correct and can be substantiated there is more music on tap.

It is reported that Albert Leitner, one of the principal witnesses in the prosecution of Street Commissioner Bower, has suddenly and unaccountably left the city.

ALMOST A MURDER.

Fred. Perry Shoots John Schwartz in the Head.

He Went to the House Intending to Murder His Mother-in-Law, but Failed—The Injured Man Improving.

About 9:30 o'clock Saturday evening Ralph Perry entered the residence of the Schwartz family, near the corner of Tecumseh and Harriet streets, and shot at his mother-in-law, Mrs. Schwartz. Johen Schwartz, her son, hearing the report, rushed into the room just in time to receive the contents of a second chamber in his neck. The would-be murderer turned and fled, and has not yet been captured.

At first it was not thought that Schwartz would live. The bullet hit him right over the mouth and went through his head. After several hemorrhages he seemed to rally and improved rapidly. It is thought to-day that he will fully recover.

What came near being an awful tragedy was the result of a family quarrel.

Ralph Perry, who did the shooting, lives on Huron street, between Jefferson and Monroe, and works for the Moreton Truck company. He is married, and his wife's sister, Mary Schwartz, a girl about 17 years of age, not over-bright, resides with them. It is said that this young girl gave birth to a child last May, and it was rumored that Perry was the father. At any rate, the Schwartz' are said to have circulated stories to that effect, and Perry in consequence was mad.

Saturday evening two Schwartz boys called at Perry's house and inquired after this sister Mary. Perry told them to get out or there would be trouble. They left and shortly afterwards he followed, going to his mother-in-law's home, where the shooting above referred to occurred.

COMPANY ORGANIZED

To Operate a Street Cleaning Apparatus.

Bernard Kern, the Inventor, and it Is Said to be a Success—Capital Stock, $50,000.

A. W. Colton, John J. Murphy, Bernard Kern and F. Jaquette are among the organizers of a company for the manufacture and operation of a newly patented street cleaning apparatus.

Mr. B. Kern, of this city, is the inventor, and a Boston expert who viewed the machine a few days ago pronounces it a great success.

The first machine is being built at the D. Moran works on Water street, and will be in operation in a few days.

The capital stock of the company is $50,000, and some of the leading capitalists of this and other cities are interested in it.

PLOW AND HAMMER.

The People's Party Paper to be Moved to Defiance.

Defiance, O., Aug. 8.—(Special.)—A deal was closer Saturday by which the "Plow and Hammer," of Tiffin, will be removed to this city.

Editor Barnes, of the "Plow and Hammer," and J. H. Dazey, of Pleasant Bend, who has purchased a half interest in the paper, were in this city Saturday, and completed arrangements. The first issue will be out next week.

It will bitterly assail the County Record, a paper which absorbed the "Farm and Factory."

ANOTHER WATCH TRUST SUIT.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—It is expected that President Dueber, of the Dueber Watch Case company, will soon begin another heavy suit against the watch trust. He says he contemplates such a proceeding but will give no particulars.

MILLIONS IN GOLD

Will Roll Through the City of Toledo.

The Money Train Has Left Chicago and is Bound for the East.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—The "gold train" from San Francisco, which is carrying $20,000,000 to the national capital, arrived in Chicago this morning at 8:45 over the Burlington road, and departed ten minutes later over the Lake Shore road.

Captain White, who is in charge of the train, said that so far the trip had been made without a single slip or accident.

The train is guarded by 40 regular army men, armed with Springfield rifles and two Gatling guns.

As soon as the train stops at a station a guard with loaded rifle appears on the platform of each car and no one is allowed to approach them. Even the conductor and trainmen were compelled to keep their distance until the train is ready to start.

Members of parliament are paid in every country except England, the United States paying the highest salary of any nation in the world—$5,000 annually.

DEATH OF MRS. E. H. BATEMAN.

A Gifted and Good Woman Gone from Our Midst.

Many hearts will sorrow and many eyes dim with tears, when it is known that Mrs. Bateman, the gifted artist, the beautiful character, the lovely and lovable woman, is gone from us to return no more forever. The end, not unexpected for many days, came suddenly, yesterday, a few minutes after the noon hour. As she was lifted up to take medicine, she leaned forward, gazed longingly out of the window, exclaiming "how beautiful, how beautiful," and sank back into unconsciousness from which she did not again rally.

Mrs. Bateman had not been in health for a year or more, but her indomitable courage and ambition kept her up and she would not own to herself or her friends that she was ailing. She has been confined to the house and most of the time to her couch for eight weeks, sometimes much better, then suddenly worse, but always hopeful, cheerful, and uncomplaining. Her disease was a complication of heart and lung trouble, of which her father, and two sisters have died.

Mrs. Bateman (Elizabeth Hinsdale) was born in Chautauqua county, New York, of good parentage. Her grandfather was a revolutionary soldier; a fine portrait of him, done by herself, is in their gallery, and his old war rifle stands beside it. She had the appearance of a woman of 40 but had passed her 50th birthday. Her marriage with Capt. C. T. Bateman took place in Michigan, while both were quite young and while Mr. Bateman was yet in college. In all his subsequent educational work, she was his helpmeet, as he has been hers, in her busy studio. She was with him on the tented field and in the hospital and the stories she could tell of camp life would make an interesting volume.

Mr. and Mrs. Bateman came to Toledo from Sturgis, Mich., where Mr. Bateman was superintendent of schools, twelve years ago, since which time they have both been successfully devoted to art teaching and order work. Mrs. Bateman's pupils came from towns far and near and her circle of friends was thus an extended one. She had worked with pencil and brush from her childhood and the crowning success of her life was the praise and commendation she received last summer, from eminent critics in the galleries of Paris, where she was privileged to copy from the masters. She came home equipped for her best work and full of enthusiasm; but the weak hand was obliged to lay by the brush, and the eyes that sought and knew and loved the beautiful are closed upon it all.. What her going away means to the bereaved family, to the home of which she was the life and inspiration, and to hosts of friends all over the country, cannot be said. It is too deep and too sacred for expression. In her art she was reaping the rich reward of years of faithful study and diligent application. The end has come, for her, but her influence and her work will live long after the busy, skillful hands and active brain are fallen to dust.

For the bereaved husband the tenderest sympathy is felt. Husband and wife have been comrades and partners in life's labors, as well as congenial companions in marriage. Two children, Walter, of the printing firm of Vrooman & Bateman, and Bret, a lad of 16, yet in school, are left to mourn and miss the tender and affectionate mother. Mrs. Jennie Simmons, of Dundee, Mich., who was with her sister through her illness, a brother in the west, and two brothers in Ionia county, Mich., are the remaining members of a large family. The funeral services will be held at the home on Eleventh street to-morrow at 10:30 and the interment will take place at Woodlawn.

Thy busy days are at an end, thy tasks are done—
Thou canst not tell us, gentle friend,
What trophies thou hast won.

A CLEVER SWINDLE.

A Cuban in Hard Luck Cuts Quite a Figure.

The Fairy Story He Told About Secreting His Wealth in a Suburb of Montreal.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 8.—Attorney J. P. Goodhart, of this city, has just unearthed a swindling scheme of gigantic proportions.

M. Paulet, a retired business man of Montreal received by Cuban mail about June 1 a written letter in French. It bore a Havana postmark and stated that the author, Elroy Basamantre, had been charged with an important financial negotiation in London in 1881, but had been obliged to leave his trunk with a false panel, in which was $1,300,000 in drafts upon the Bank of England, in the environs of Montreal. M. Paulet was requested to secure the trunks and drafts. He was favorably impressed and replied saying he woud gladly hear the Cuban's full story. Basamantre replied that through a conspiracy he had been deprived temporarily of his money in Montreal, but had hidden it. He could give no accurate description of the place where the trunk was and he asserted that after leaving Montreal he had been kept a prisoner in Cuba for seven years in defaault of a fine of $2,625 for political offences. He needed just that sum to obtain hi freedom.

Accompanying his letter was an official document containing the record of his crime and sentence. M. Paulet was the most interested, but as he is 60 years old and feeble he sent his daughter to this city to consult Attorney Goodhart in relation to the matter, and if advisable, to go at once to Cuba and procure the prisoner's release at almost any cost.

Mr. Goodhart conferred with Inspector Byrnes and other leading detectives in this country and Cuba about the matter, who unite in pronouncing the case a fraud. Miss Paulet was loath to believe it such and abandoned further investigation of the matter with great reluctance.

A third letter from the Cuban confirms Mr. Goodhart's suspicions. The epistle states that a stay and extension of the proceedings for thirty days has been obtained by dint of great effort.

The letters clearly show that the men behind the swindle were prisoners of intelligence and diplomacy. Though the fraud is manifest Havana authorities will be placed in possession of the facts and asked to communicate further with Mr. Goodhart.

SMALLPOX IN NEW YORK.

New York, Aug. 8.—One more death and two new cases of smallpox were reported this morning at the bureau of contagious diseases. The two patients were removed to North Brothers island.

Two heroes of the hour in England are Mr. M. R. Jardine and Mr. V. T. Hill, of Oxford, whose batting in the cricket match with Cambridge was the best witnessed at Lord's for many years. They batted out 140 and 114 runs respectively, and the event, like Beecher's run or Heffelfinger's general prowess on the American football field, will be remembered for a generation. The great beauty of Mr. Jardine's performance was that previous to the match, although he had brought up a good cricketing reputation from his school, he was not reckoned a first-class man, and some critics had protested against his retention in the Oxford eleven. His batting came within three runs of the historic record made by Mr. K. J. Key in 1886. Oxford owed her really fine victory this year almost entirely to the batting of four men. Never previously in these university matches have two men each scored as many as a hundred runs in one inning.

The clothes line of our ancestors is being displaced by a wire line. Almost any kind of wire is superior to thin rope, and, so far as cost is concerned, it is often possible to get as much wire as is wanted without incurring any expense at all. Even if the wire has to be purchased, the cost is not at all heavy, especially as it will last for years without any care.

828 Huron St., Toledo, O., July 17, '92.
Hand Medicine Co., Gentlemen:

My baby is now three months old and has had colic all her life. We gave her all kinds of remedies without any beneficial effect. I was almost discouraged in trying anything else when a friend told me of your Dr. Hand's Colic cure. I gave her 12 drops which acted like a charm. Now as soon as I discover she has wind colic I give her one or two doses which relieves her entirely. I want to advise all mothers who have fretful babies to use Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. I will hereafter always keep it in the house.

THE DRYAD.

I have seen her limpid eyes,
Large with gradual laughter, rise
Through wild roses' nettles;
Like twin blossoms grow and stare—
Then the hateful, envious air
Whisked them into petals.

I have seen her hardy cheek,
Like a molten coral, leak
Through the leafage shaded
Of thick Chickasaws; and then,
When I made more sure, again,
To a red plum faded.

I have found her racy lips,
And her graceful finger tips,
But a haw or berry;
Glimmers of her there and here,
Just, forsooth, enough to cheer
And to make me merry.

Often on the ferny rocks
Dazzling rimples of loose locks
At me she hath shaken,
And I've followed—all in vain!—
They had trickled into rain,
Sunlit, on the braken.

Once her full limbs flashed on me,
Naked, where some royal tree
Powdered all the spaces
With wan sunlight and quaint shade—
Such a haunt romance hath made
For haunched satyr races.

There, I know, hid amorous Pan;
For a sudden pleading ran
Through the maze of myrtle,
And a rapid violence tossed
All its flowerage—'twas the lost
Coolings of a turtle.

Rather more than ten tons of red lead have been injected between the wood sheathing and the hull of the English cruiser Rainbow. This has not been done on account of any defect in workmanship, but as a precautionary measure.

A Berlin shoemaker has invented an artificial stone sole for footwear. It is made of a solution of some kind of parent cement and pure white quartz sand. A pair of such soles will last four years on any pavement, and are said to be elastic and easy on the feet.

When United States Treasurer Huston came into office he gave a receipt for what the treasury vaults contained, and this receipt was the largest ever given in the history of the world. A fac-simile of it is framed and hung up in the treasurer's office, and it represents $771,432,349.45 2-3.

The London Times' report of the debates in parliament are dictated through the telephone to the printing house, a mile and a half away, and immediately put in type, so that when the debates continue until 3 a. m., as they often do, the papers with full reports, are ready for the 5 a. m. newspaper trains.

A man in Evanston, Wyo., has invented a new style of railroad which he claims ought to transport passengers across the country at the rate of 200 miles an hour as easily as trains can now be run at 50 miles an hour. The cars are to be run on a single elevated rail placed upon posts and steadied by side rails.

Professor Elihu Thompson, in a recent article, states his belief that 130,000 horse-power of 500,000 volts can be transmitted 240 miles through three wires about as large as a good-sized knitting-needle, and, moreover, that this can be sent underground through a small pipe, using only cotton and cheap oil as an insulator.

Currents of water serve to a vast extent the purpose of distributing seeds. Walnut, butternut and pecan seeds are found close to streams, where they drop their nuts into the passing floods, to be carried far away and start other groves perhaps hundreds of miles distant. Tree seeds of many sorts are carried by oceanic currents.

"Traian's Wall" is a rampart made of earth and about 35 or 40 miles long, extending from Rossova, just at the big end of the Danube, to the shores of the Black sea. Though only an earthwork it is a most formidable line of defense. Even now, 18 centuries after its construction, it is from 8 to 10 feet in height, with a clear cut fosse in front of it.

European ladies are often invited to visit the harems of the rich Moors in Morocco. Some time ago one of the inmates—a beautiful young girl—fainted at the sight of one of the lady visitors removing her gloves. The young lady thought she was removing a thick skin from her hand, and the sight frightened her so much that it was some time before she could regain consciousness.

That a knowledge of mythology (as taught to young ladies and others) should be common in the Greece of to-day is only natural. You shall find the urchins in the village school at Delphi reciting the lives of heroes and saints, of Samson and Hercules, of the virgin huntress and her who was greatest among women, in a breath. All are equally real to them, as they might have been to their forebears 18 centuries ago.

Napoleon Le Grande, a Biddeford (Me.) French Canadian, has a small menagerie of his own, which is both profitable and amusing. His big St. Bernard dog furnishes power for turning a lathe by diligent work in a treadmill, and also takes part, with other dogs, in acrobatic exercises which would win applause in Barnum's tent. Le Grande has clown dogs, leaping greyhounds and a buck deer broken to harness.

The cableway at Deer Park group of mines, near Descanso, Cal., was broken in a singular manner recently. It has a single span of 4,450 feet. The tension is twenty tons, and the loads are one-hundred-and-twenty-five pound sacks of ore from the mines on the mountain sides to the mills below. Just after an extra hard shake in the series of earthquakes there it parted. It is supposed that the vibrations, coming from each end of the line, met in the center and caused the break.

A big stick for the Washington (State) building at the world's fair has just been hauled to water at Kamilchie. The length of this log is 122 feet with a diameter at the smaller end of 46 inches and at the butt of 72 inches, without knot or blemish its entire length. A slab will be sawed from this log at Port Blakeley on three sides, in which form it will be placed in the state structure at Chicago, which will to the height of the second story be constructed of logs like this, that will give the best idea of the capabilities of the state as a timber producer.

In the North Fork fossil beds of Grant county, Oregon, besides remains of three-toed horses, is found an extinct race of cat—the gomphodus—which once roamed over Oregon, and which amused itself and fed itself by chewing up the mighty reptiles of millions of years ago. It was as big as the biggest panther, and had two teeth in its upper jaw, resembling daggers, each five inches in length. As weapons for penetrating flesh, they are unrivaled among carnivorous animals, recent or extinct. They are rather like the teeth of some large flesh-eating dinosaurs, the "terrible reptiles" of the mesozoic epoch, which had cutting teeth which nothing could resist. Doubtless this creature was inconceivably bloodthirsty.

A GREAT COON KILLING.

Jim Fell, an old grizzly hunter and trapper of the Big Smoky mountain wilderness, North Carolina, has a boy—Jack—now turning his 16th year, whose ingenuity has led to many contests as to which one could secure the greatest number of pelts or kill the biggest string of game in a given time. The biggest scoop Jack ever got on the old man was last fall, says the St. Louis Republic. The The crop of corn had been cut and shocked in the ten-acre field. It was a splendid crop, but the coons for miles and miles about had, to all appearances, held a council of war, resulting in a grand charge upon the field. For several nights coons of all sizes, ages and conditions overran the field, and although old Jim thinned out the ranks, having killed over a dozen in one night, they returned reinforced in numbers until the old man became despondent, lost his appetite, and forgot to smoke his pipe for the first time in his life.

"No use tryin' to wipe them ar' coons out'n 'sistence by shootin' or clubbin' 'em, did. You jist stay away fum de cohnfield, dad, an' let me manage 'em," said Jack.

"Go ahead, young 'un; but I'll bet ole Lead (the old man's favorite hound) that them coons'll kerry off cohn, stalks an' all, afore yu kin put a stop to it."

"You'me js stay 'way fum de field's all I ast," replied Jack as he went to work.

In the horse shed was a barrel of tar which Jim and Jack had made in the pine woods some time before, and young Jack proposed to make the tar figure in the extermination. A snake, built of rails, extended around the cornfield, which at one corner touched the deep forest, or came so near to it that there was not more than 100 yards between it and the woods. Jack had noticed that the army of coons, when alarmed, would invariably break for the woods in a long line, jumping and running along the top rails of the fence. Jack got an old bucket and a flat piece of wood, and in the course of an hour or two he had plastered or coated the top rail with the tar to the depth of a quarter or half inch. Over the top and along the edges, to prevent the tar from spreading and running off, he sprinkled a little dry earth mingled with leaves. The trap was in shape for business before sundown. After covering the center stretch of top rails, Jack gave the riders a touch of the same stuff and then went to the house.

The family at his suggestion retired to the cabin at an early hour, and took the dogs into the house with them; before 10 o'clock the noise that came down from the field was so great that old Jim thought the army of coons would carry off the whole crop of corn in an hour or two, and he wanted to go out and frighten them off, but Jack prevailed upon him to keep quiet.

"They 'uns'll not git away dad. Not fur enyhow," Jack said.

Old Jim sat down, chafing and mad as a hornet. After waiting until near midnight young Jack armed himself with a hickory club, handed another to the old man, and said: "Kum on, dad, an' let the dogs loose, too."

When the party emerged from the cabin and reached the field it looked as if all the coons between the Blue Ridge and Alligator swamp had sprung up in a minute in that cornfield. The singalled foragers swarmed toward the fences in couples, platoons, companies, and battalions, and lined the top of the fences, each coon with an ear of corn tightly grasped in his paws. Old Jim and Jack, with the four dogs charged the fence at the back line, whooping, yelling, and barking, and away they went. Before they reached the woods, in fact when they were a couple of hundred yards distant, coons began to tumble off the fence, or to stick where they were, and such snarling and snapping of teeth was never heard in that section as the men and dogs charged them, knocking them over with their clubs. The coons couldn't run on the ground with any speed. Neither could they put up their usual tough battle. Their feet were covered with tar and dirt and leaves so thickly that that their every step was difficult. Some of them turned somersaults in their rage, while others squatted down or sat on their haunches and snarled and snapped.

Right and left the clubs swished through the air, killing a coon at every blow, until the chargers came to the corner of the fence in the edge of the woods. There the tangled and tarred coons were so thick that it became dangerous to go among them. After a few nips from the sharp teeth of the animals old Jim, Jack, and the dogs hung around the edges of the mass and banged away until they were literally worn out. The ground, which had been covered with dry leaves, was a rolling, tumbling mass of living but helpless animals, covered with tar and leaves. In some cases so thickly that the coons couldn't even see, their eyes being covered with leaves and twigs. For half an hour the death-dealing clubs descended, and at the end of that time the hunters and their dogs had killed all the coons within reach. Some had escaped by climbing the trees close to the fence, but their escape was only temporary, as it was evident that they couldn't get far away. They were let alone until daylight, when old Jim and Jack returned with their guns and found them still there. They soon made short work of the dozen or so of coons which had succeeded in getting into the trees. Then the work of counting and skinning the game began.

There were 118 full-grown coons in the bunch, and it was no slight contract to skin them. After skinning the game the hunters found a narrow but deep gulch in which they threw the bodies, mixing them with armfuls of dry brush and leaves. They poured half a barrel of tar on the mass and set fire to it, cremating more coons than were ever seen before in one crowd. The hunters gathered up the corn which had been dropped by the fleeing animals and stored it away in their cabin loft, where it made a pile measuring several bushels. From that day up to about a week ago, when old Jim told the story and showed the big pile of coon skins as evidence, he says not a solitary coon has been seen or heard of within fifteen miles of his place. Some of old Jim's trapper acquaintances demurred and charged old Jim with ruining the business by exterminating the coons, but when they saw the big pile of skins and went over the field they admitted that they would have done just as old Jim had if they had owned such a big field of corn and had had as ingenious a boy as Jack.

WHAT COULD HE SAY.

It was, if we remember rightly, Thackeray's little daughter who once asked her father why he did not write amusing books "like Mr. Dickens." Little Miss Beerbohm Tree is said to have startled her father by an equally unexpected question a few days ago. She wanted a pony; but childish coaxing and childish teasing proved of no avail—Mr. Tree said he could not afford to buy it. "Then why," asked the little girl, looking up into the popular actor's face, "then why don't you play a little better and make more money?"—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE TELESCOPE SNAKE.

Wonderful Sight Witnessed by a Reputable Citizen of Seneca County.

A symposium of snake stories printed in the Tiffin Advertiser contains the following by Will Dore, a promising young attorney of that city:

One day while driving along the Portland road near the Spicer creek bridge, I espied a prodigious snake stretched across the roadway. It lay across the track and lapped over the weeds on either side. I leaped from the buggy and a well-directed blow soon broke the reptile's spinal column. Taking out my tape measure I accurately measured his snakeship and found he was exactly twelve feet and one inch long. He was quite small in girth, but had a scaley appearance. Leaving him lie on the side of the track, I went my way, and before I had gone half a mile I met Joe Arnold. I described my adventure and casually mentioned the extraordinary length of the snake. Joe wouldn't believe the story at all and in the end I bet him that the snake was at least twelve feet long. We went back and there, to my intense astonishment, lay a short, thick snake in place of my slim twelve-footer. I saw it was the same snake, for its back plainly showed the marks of the blow I had given it. Clearly my snake had shrunk in some unaccountable manner. I thought it best to say nothing but hand over the V. Hardly had I done so when I observed the left eye of the snake to open and close again with a quizzical expression, and then, to our intense surprise, the snake began to elongate itself. From the length of perhaps nineteen inches it slowly stretched out and out until its head and tail were at least fifteen feet asunder. Then with a low hiss of derision it disappeared into the forest. It was the famous telescopic snake of the early settlers, a reptile which can alter its length at will, and which has caused more divergence in snake anecdotes than Barnum's boa constrictor. But the $5-bill was carried back to town in my pocket.

THE GLORIOUS MARCH.

Eloquent Sermon Delivered by Dr. Talmage.

Minister of the Brooklyn Tabernacle Kept Very Busy on His Trip Abroad.

London, Aug. 8.—The week, like others that have preceded in since the beginning of Rev. Dr. Talmadge's foreign preaching tour, has been a very busy one.

Indeed, since July 24, when he preached in the English and American church in Berlin, while enroute from Russia to Scotland, Dr. Talmadge can scarcely be said to have had a moment's leisure.

Services have been held in Edinburgh, Inverness, Aberdeen, Dundee, Glasgow, Newcastle and Sunderland. The sermon for this week was entitled, "The Glorious March," the text being from Solomon's Song vi. 10: "Fair as the moon, clear as the sun, and terrible as an army with banners."

The fragrance of spikenard, the flash of jewels, the fruitfulness of orchards, the luxuriance of gardens, the beauty of Heshbon fishpools, the dew of the night, and the splendor of the morning—all contribute to the richness of Solomon's style when he comes to speak of the glory of the church.

In contrast with his eulogium of the church, look at the denunciatory things that are said in our day in regard to it. If one stockholder becomes a cheat, does that destroy the whole company? If one soldier be a coward, does that condemn the whole army? And yet there are many in this day, so unphilosophic, so illogical, so dishonest, and so unfair as to denounce the entire church of God because there are here and there bad men belonging to it. There are those who say that the church of God is not up to the spirit of the day in which we live; but I have only to tell you that, notwithstanding all the swift wheels, and the flying shuttles, and the lightning communications, the world has never yet been able to keep up with the church. As high as God is above man, so high is the church of God—higher than all human institutions. From her lamp the best discoveries of the world have been lighted. The best of our inventors have believed in the Christian religion—the Fultons, the Morses, the Whitneys, the Perrys, and the Livingstones. She has owned the best of the telescopes and Leyden jars; and while infidelity and atheism have gone blindfolded among the most startling discoveries that were about to be developed, the earth and the air and the sea have made quick and magnificent responses to Christian philosophers.

The world will not be up to the church of Christ until the day when all merchandise has become honest merchandise, and all governments have become free governments, and all nations evangelized nations, and the last deaf ear of spiritual death shall be broken open by the million-voiced shout of nations born in a day. The church that Nebuchadnezzar tried to burn in the furnace, and Darius to tear to pieces with the lions, and Lord Claverhouse to cut with the sword, has gone on, wading the floods and enduring the fire, until the deepest barbarism, and the fiercest cruelties, and the blackest superstitions have been compelled to look to the east, crying, "Who is she that looketh forth as the morning, fair as the moon, clear as the sun, and terrible as an army with banners?"

Yet there are people who are ashamed to belong to the church of Christ, and if you ask them whether they are in such associations, they say, "Yes, I sometimes attend the church;" instead of realizing the fact that there is no honor compared with the honor of being a member of the church of God. I look back with joy to the most honored moment of my life, when in the old country meeting house the minister of Christ announced my name as a follower of the Lord.

You who are floating about in the world, seeking for better associations, why do you not join yourself to some of the churches? An old sea captain was riding in the cars toward Philadelphia, and a young man sat down beside him. He said: "Young man, where are you going?" "I am going to Philadelphia to live," replied the young man. "Have you letters of introduction?" asked the old captain. "Yes," said the young man; and he pulled some of them out. "Well," said the old sea captain, "havn't you a church certificate?" "Oh, yes," replied the young man, "I didn't suppose you would want to look at that." "Yes," said the sea captain, "I want to see that. As soon as you get to Philadelphia, present it to some Christian church. I am an old sailor, and I have been up and down in the world, and it's my rule, as soon as I get into port to fasten my ship fore and aft to the wharf, although it may cost a little wharfage, rather than have my ship out in the stream floating hither and thither with the tide."

O men and women, by the tides of frivolity and worldliness swept this way and swept that way, seeking for associations and for satisfactions for the immortal soul; come into the church of Jesus Christ. Lash fast to her. She is the pillar and the ground of truth. I propose to speak of the threefold glory of the church as it is described in the text:

First, "Fair as the moon." God, who has determined that everything shall be beautiful in its season, has not left the night without charm. The moon rules the night. The stars are ony set as gems in her tiara. Sometimes before the sun has gone down the moon mounts her throne, but it is after nightfall that she sways her undisputed scepter over island and continent, river and sea. Under her shining the plainest maple leaves become shivering silver, the lakes from shore to shore look like shining mirrors, and the ocean under her glance with great tides comes up panting upon the beach, mingling, as it were, foam and fire.

Under the witchery of the moon, the awful steeps lose their ruggedness, and the chasms their terror. The poor man blesses God for throwing so cheap a light through the broken window-pane of his cabin, and to the sick it seems like a light from the other shore that bounds this great deep of human pain and woe. If the sun be like a song, full and loud and poured forth from brazen instruments that fill heaven and earth with harmony, the moon is plaintive and sad, standing beneath the throne of God, sending up her soft, sweet voice of praise, while the stars listen and the sea! No mother ever more lovingly watched a sick cradle than this pale watcher of the sky bends over the weary, heart-sick, slumbering earth, singing to its silvery music, while it is rocked in the cradle of the spheres.

Now, says my text, "Who is she, fair as the moon?" Our answer is the church. Like the moon, she is a borrowed light. She gathers up the glory of a Saviour's sufferings, a Saviour's death, a Saviour's resurrection, a Saviour's ascension, and pours that light on palace and dungeon, on squalid heathenism and elaborate scepticism, on widow's tears and martyr's robe of flame, on weeping penitence and loud-mouthed scorn.

She is the only institution to-day that gives any light to our world. Into her portal the poor come and get the sympathy of a once pillowless Christ, the bereaved come and see the bottle in which God saves all our tears, and the captives come, and on the sharp corners of the altars dash off their chains, and the thirsty come and put their cup under the "Rock of Ages," which pours forth from its smitten side living water, sparkling water, crystalline water, from under the throne of God and the Lamb. Blessed the bell that calls her worshipers to prayer. Blessed the waters in which her members are baptized. Blessed the wine that glows in her sacramental cups. Blessed the songs on which her devotions travel up and the angels of God travel down.

As the moon goes through the midst of the roaring storm clouds unflushed and unharmed, and comes out calm and beautiful on the other side, so the church of God has gone through all the storms of this world's persecution and come out uninjured, no worse for the fact that Robespierre cursed it, and Voltaire caricatured it, and Tom Paine sneered at it, and all the forces of darkness have bombarded it.

Not like some baleful comet shooting across the sky, scattering terror and dismay among the nations, but above the long, howling night of the world's wretchedness the Christian church has made her mild way, "Fair as the moon."

I take a step further in my subject—"Clear as the sun." After a season of storm or fog, how you are thrilled when the sun comes out at noonday! The mists travel up hill above hill, mountain above mountain, until they are sky lost. The forests are full of chirp and buzz and song; honey-makers on the log, bird's peak pounding the bark, the chatter of the squirrel on the rail, the call of a hawk out of the clear sky, make you thankful for the sunshine which makes all the world so busy and so glad. The same sun which in the morning kindled conflagrations among the castles of cloud, stoops down to paint the lily white, and the buttercup yellow, and the forget-me-not blue.

What can resist the sun? Light for voyager on the deep; light for shepherds guarding the flocks afield; light for the poor who have no lamps to burn; light for the downcast and weary; light for aching eyes and burning brain and consuming captive; light for the smooth brow of childhood and the dim vision of the octogenarian; light for queen's coronet and sewing girl's needle. "Let there be light."

Now, says my text, "Who is she that looketh forth clear as the sun?" Our answer is, the church. You have been going along a road before daybreak, and on one side you thought you saw a lion, and on the other you thought you say a goblin of the darkness, but when the sun came out you found these were harmless apparitions. And it is the great mission of the church of Jesus Christ to come forth "clear as the sun," to illumine all earthly darkness, to explain, as far as possibe, all mystery, and to make the world radiant in its brightness; and that which you thought was an aroused lion is found out to be a slumbering lamb; and the sepulchral gates of your dead turn out to be opening gates of heaven; and that which you supposed wos a flaming sword to keep you out of paradise, is an angel of light to beckon you in.

The lamps on her altars will cast their glow on your darkest pathway, and cheer you until, far beyond the need of lantern or lighthouse, you are safely anchored within the veil. O sun of the church! shine on until there is no sorrow to soothe, no tears to wipe away, no shackles to break, no more souls to be redeemed. Ten thousand hands of sin have attempted to extinguish the lamps on her altars, but they are quenchless; and to silence her pulpits, but the thunder would leap and the lightning would flame.

The church of God will yet come to full meridian, and in that day all the mountains of the world will be sacred mountains, touched with the glory of Calvary, and all streams will flow to the mount of God lik cool Siloam, and all lakes be radiant with gospel memories like Gennesaret, and all islands of the sea be crowned with apocalyptic vision like Patmos, and all cities be sacred as Jerusalem, and all gardens luxuriant as Paradise, with God walking in the cool of the day. Then the chorals of grace will drown out the anthems of earth. Then the throne of Christ will overtop all earthly authority. Then the crown of Jesus will outflame all other coronets. Sin destroyed. Death dead. Hell defeated. The church triumphant. Ace the darknesses of trouble, all the darknesses of earthly mystery, hieing themselves to their dens. "Clear as the sun! clear as the sun!"

Further, "Terrible as an army with banners." I take one more step in this subject and say that if you were placed for the defence of a feeble town, and a great army was seen coming over the hills with flying ensigns, then you would be able to get some idea of the terror that will strike the hearts of the enemies of God when the church at last marches on like "an army with banners."

You know that there is nothing that excites a soldier's enthusiasm so much as an old flag. Many a man almost dead, catching a glimpse of the national ensign, hassp rung to his feet and started again into battle. Now, my friends, I don't want you to think of the church of Christ as a defeated institution, as the victim of infidel sarcasm, something to be kicked and cuffed and trampled on through all the ages of the world. It is "an army with banners." It has an inscription and colors such as never stirred the hearts of any earthly soldiery. We have our banner of recruit, and on it is inscribed, "Who is on the Lord's side?" Our banner of defiance, and on it is inscribed, "The gates of hell shall not prevail against us." Our banner of triumph, and on it is inscribed, "Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ!" and we mean to plant that banner on every hilltop and wave it at the gate of heaven.

THROWN OUT OF CHURCH.

A Converted Hebrew Preached the Wrong Kind of Doctrine.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 8.—Saturday, which was the Jewish Sabbath, at 5:30 in the afternoon, the hour when the descendants of Jacob meet to pray and listen to a discourse from a rabbi, the synagogue of the Sons of Jacob was filled with devout worshipers.

A strange rabbi, for such he was taken to be, arose and began to preach in the Hebrew tongue. He was clever and the audience was much taken with him.

Suddenly he began to preach Christ crucified. A match dropped into a can of powder could not have created a greater commotion. Instantly the congregation was on its feet demanding that the man be put out of the house. The man continued to preach Christ as though talking to the most appreciative audience, and a moment later everybody made a rush for him at once.

He attempted to defend himself, but was knocked down and, after his head was right well thumped on the floor, dragged and thrown out of the synagogue. The stranger took the hint and concluded that he was not wanted there.

It seems that the stranger was a converted Polish Jew named Nathaniel Friedman, who lives at No. 626 Lawson street. He claims that he was invited there by a prominent member of the Sons of Jacob and told that he might preach a short sermon.

Friedman stated last evening that he would bring suit against the Sons of Jacob to recover damages for his injuries, etc. Friedman is not seriously hurt, but has some big bumps on his head which he received by having his head bumped on the floor.

TEACH THE BOYS.

The Tide of Anarchy Can be Turned Back by Allowing Women to Vote.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 8.—Interest in the 4 o'clock national service Sunday was increased by the appearance of Gen. Burd Grubb, ex-minister to Spain, and Elijah Halford, private secretary to President Harrison. Four thousand persons were present.

Gen. Grubb was the first speaker. He was greeted with applause and the Chautauqua salute was given. He contrasted Sunday in Spain with Sunday in this country. The morning and afternoon services in Spain, he said, are thoroughly attended, but in the evening the people give themselves up to enjoyment.

He attributed the greatness of this country to the ballot box. "Educate the boys how to vote," he said. "Teach them the ballot laws of every state, in order that they can instruct others. The only way we can roll back the tide of anarchy from this country is by allowing the women to vote. They should take a part in our national elections, and then the country would be purer." Gen. Grubb closed his address by giving a history of the Caroline Island difficulty.

Secretary Halford's address was brief. He compared the modern tendency of giving precedence to applied science in the scientific world with the tendency of applied Christianity to push creed and dogma from the front. In conclusion he spoke on freely-giving American people, who, he said, were always at the front in every charitable purpose.

SHE CRIED FOR AID,

And Then Refused to Prosecute the Man Who Assaulted Her.

New York, Aug. 8.—In responding to a cry of murder from one of the upper rooms of the Manhattan Beach hotel yesterday morning officers found a handsome woman greatly agitated.

She declared that her husband had attempted to murder her. The man, who was intoxicated, was locked up.

He was E. D. Price, a theatrical manager, and at the hearing yesterday his wife refused to make a charge against him and he was discharged with a fine of $10. They left at once for New York.

To the officers the couple explained that they had been married on Tuesday last at the Little Church Around the Corner. The woman gave her name as Carrie Price and said she was an actress. At Coney Island to-day it was stated that Price recently married a well-known actress whose name is said to be Adelaide Emerson.

AN OHIO ORATOR

Wakes the Echoes at "Beautiful" Bay View.

His Address to the Vets—Leon H. Vincent on Hawthorne.

Special Correspondence Toledo Bee.
Petoskey, August 6.

Gen. Gibson, who needs no introduction to Ohioans, was the orator at Bay View on Grand Army day, Wednesday. Flags and patriotic music were the accompaniments to the General's very eloquent effort. Leon H. Vincent's lecture on Hawthorne was scholarly, appreciative and finely discriminating. He placed his name second—next to Irving—in American literature.

Gen. Gibson was interviewed for the bright little "Resorter," which lets no opportunity for breezy news and conversation get by. He praised Bay View, saying:

It beats them all. I've been to almost all of them and for beauty of location, bracing air, and the general appearance of the cottages you are on the top of the heap here at Bay View. I have just been attnding assemblies in Iowa and Kansas and am now on my way to Island Park, Ind., where I deliver three addresses. These assemblies are a great thing and are doing a magnificent work for education and life. The combination of work and recreation that one can get at a place like this is a most happy one and is just about what this hurrying, rushing American life needs. Pleasant people live at Bay View, and I've greatly enjoyed my stay.

Having thus gotten the General in good humor, seated in an easy chair on the broad hotel veranda, overlooking the bay and furnished with a good cigar, the scribe gently approached him on politics, with the following result, between vigorous puffs:

Going to have a lively campaign this fall? Well, yes, I think it will get pretty active toward the end. But the campaign is going to be short—lively while its at it, but not very long drawn out. Harrison has given us a good clean administration, free from all scandal and in general very strong. Yes, I wish it were Blaine, too. Then we would have had a campaign that would have been a campaign! Talk about enthusiasm! Cleveland has no more enthusiasm to his make up than an oyster, and Harrison has neither enthusiasm nor manners. Of course Harrison has your respect, but Blaine has your respect and your enthusiasm, too. It was Blaine's wife that did the mischief this spring, and I have it on personal knowledge. He would never had made such a botch of things had it not been for her. Yes, we ought to have had Blaine. He's the party's man and he's near the party's heart, but I'm afraid he's politically dead now. He's the greatest man I ever met, without exception. Will the Blaine men support Harrison? Well, it would leave Harrison with mighty few votes if they didn't! But they will, —they are too loyal to the party to sulk, and while they may not throw as much enthusiasm into the campaign as they would with Blaine at the lead, yet they'll do their duty.

The weather is perfect here and everybody seems to enjoy life with a keen relish. If it were not for the invigorating air, lectures, concerts and classes, would not be so full of interest and so well attended. It affords the wisest and most helpful kind of recreation. M. M.

HALF A MILE OF FIGHTING.

Six Hundred People Raising Bedlam—Dispersed by the Police.

Orange, N. J., Aug. 8.—A race war between negroes and Italians broke out here last night, and one man was seriously stabbed and twenty others injured with clubs, brickbats and stones.

The trouble arose through a dispute between a negro and an Italian. They began to fight in Frank Matthews' saloon, and, on being put out, continued the fight on the street.

The negro was beaten and his friends came to his rescue and the Italians started in to help their countryman.

The affair occurred in South street, which is about half a mile long, and about half the houses are occupied by Italians and the rest by negroes. About 600 men and women were engaged and a brisk fight took place.

Stones, sticks and bricks flew thick, and by the time the police reserves arrived 20 persons had been seriously injured. The police for some time could make no impression on the crowd. When the combatants were finally separated they quickly dispersed, and no arrests were made.

Daniel Tucker, one of the negroes, was found later with a bad stab wound in the neck, and medical attendance had to be summoned. A force of police is now guarding the street and endeavoring to prevent a re-occurrence of the trouble.

CAME TO LIFE.

Unpleasant Sensation of a Man Who Found Himself Laid Out.

Cincinnati, Aug. 8.—An almost unheard of case was developed at the city morgue Sunday. During the recent warm spell, when the morgue and hospitals were filled with heat victims, Henry Klare, a hostler, 64 years old, was carried into the morgue to all appearances dead.

He was placed in a cooling box, washed and prepared for identification, covered with ice and a sheet spread over the face. Turning from his completed work Attendant Brunsorp was washing his hands at the sink, when glancing through the half open door of the dead room he saw the new arrival slowly rising, with the sheet still clinging to him and the ice sliding off.

Brunstrop hastily called Superintendent Shaw and together they assisted the man to a warmer and clearer atmosphere. A patrol wagon was called and Klare was sent to the hospital, where he was given extra treatment and survived five days, when he died and was buried by his fellow employes.

CURES SCROFULA
Mrs. E. J. Rowell, Medford, Mass., says her mother has been cured of Scrofula by the use of four bottles of S. S. S. after having had much other treatment, and being induced to quite a low condition of health, as it was thought she could not live.
S. S. S. Cured my little boy of hereditary scrofula which appeared all over his face. For a year I had given up all hope of his recovery, when finally I was induced to use S. S. S. A few bottles cured him, and no symptoms of the disease remain.

WALT WHITMAN.

His Tomb Must be Protected From Vandal Memento Hunters.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 8.—The directors of Harleigh cemetery are holding a special meeting to-day to adopt measures to protect the tomb of Walt Whitman from the depredations of the vandal memento gatherers, who during the few months that have elapsed since the burial of the good gray poet have carried away every portable object in the neighborhood of the tomb, and have even gone so far as to arm themselves with hammers and chip off pieces of the granite walls.

The poet's grave lies in a very romantic spot in the cemetery, and is situated in a grove of oak trees, beneath which the poet loved to sit and while away many an hour.

In fact the spot is so obscured by the tall and noble oaks that the operations of the memento gatherers can be easily carried on without detection. Fortunately the damage so far is slight, and there have not been above a dozen fragments chipped from the tomb.

The oak trees have also suffered, those in the neighborhood of the tomb being despoiled of their lower branches. In view of the large and constantly increasing number of visitors to the spot the directors to-day decided to surround the tomb with iron railings, and to allow no one within the enclosure.

MARKETS OF THE WORLD

Prospects of High Prices for Mackerell.

Grain Rates on Both Sides of the Globe—Wheat in Sight and Other Matters of Interest.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 257,462 bu., and at five other western points 926,604 bu., an aggregate of 1,184,030 bu. On the corresponding Monday in 1891 the receipts were 982,899 bu., with only 87,068 bu. of northwestern wheat.

The export clearances Saturday from four Atlantic ports were: Wheat 126,678 bu., and flour to an aggregate of 270,000 bu. Exports of corn, 126,800 bu., and of oats 63,218 bu.

English wheat markets are firm for wheat and corn.

The Markets To-day.

Bradstreet says, "During the past fortnight the total increase of stocks wheat was less than 900,000 bushels, while in the like two weeks of 1891 the increase was fully 4,206,000 bushels ,showing that the movement of the crop last year was much larger than of late.

Concerning above we desire to say that our list of points included in our weekly statement of receipts and shipments are fewer than Bradstreet's, but they are a good indication of the whole movement. The receipts of wheat for two weeks ending Saturday last at eight principal western points were 11,472,000 bu., and in the corresponding two weeks in 1891 the receipts were 12,679,000 bu., showing an excess of 1,207,000 bu. In the same two weeks there were received at four Atlantic ports 5,626,000 bu., and in 1891 6,910,000 bu. This crop moves late, but including old wheat from the northwest, the receipts at eight points above noted for the past five days exceed the movement in 1891.

Baltimore grain dealers seem to meet with great obstacles in their competition with Toledo for wheat in the southwest. They find it necessary to attack our inspection because their bids for the wheat are under Toledo. That is a poor way of competing, gentlemen. Toledo inspection is known and approved east and west, as fair and just, and will continue to be. If you wnt the wheat bid for it. The east generally want about 2 to 3 cents profit on each purchase. Toledo is satisfied with 1-2 cent.

Illinois state crop report will show condition of corn 78 compared with 69 last month. Wheat yield per acre average 18 bushels, oats 27.

The visible supply of wheat increased last week 2,088,000 bushels, corn increased 109,000 bushels and oats 3 bushels. In the corresponding week in 1891 wheat increased 1,186,000 bushels, corn decreased 73,000 bushels, oats increased 31,000 bushels.

The shipments of wheat from India last week equalled 340,000 bu. Previous week, 900,000 bu. Since April 1st, the commencement of the crop year, to August6, 19,972 bu., compared with 26,200,000 bu. in the corresponding period in 1891.

The wheat market on this side of the Atlantic are influenced more decidedly by domestic than by foreign influences. Early in the crop year the newspapers, and amateur crop reporters and bears in the wheat pits all united in assuring England and Europe that we had another bumper crop of from 550,000,000 to 575,000,000 of bushels, and of course down went the price.

From the commencement we have contended that 500,000,000 would measure the crop, and it begins to dawn on these benighted gentlemen that we are about correct in our estimates. The yields of winter do not pan out as expected on either coast, and the Lord only knows what the spring wheat crop will do. This reaction in opening, and the serious advance in corn is chargable for the sharp upward turn in prices to-day.

Corn has been bulled by reports of continued wet weather in the west, and the scramble of shorts to get back their short sales.

It is a weather market and no one can operate knowingly.

In New York, August wheat closed at 84 3-4c and September at 85 3-8c, a gain on each of 1 3-8c. August corn closed at 62c, a gain of 2 7-8c and September at 61c, a gain of 3 7-8c. August oats at 40c, a gain of 1 1-2c.

In Chicago, September wheat closed at 79 5-8c, a gain of 1 1-2c. September corn at 54 7-8c, a gain of 3c. September oats at 35c, a gain of 1 7-8c.

In Toledo.

We have had a firm and advancing wheat market, with about the usual amount of trading. On the basis of September the market opened 7-8c up, advanced 3-4c and declined 1-4c, closing at a gain of 1 3-8c. August closed at same advance and December at 7-8c. After the call August sold at 81c to 82c and closed at 81 3-4c; September sold at 81 1-4c to 82c and closed at 81 3-4c; December sold at 83 7-8c and 84c to 84 3-8c and closed at 83 1-4 bid.

Cash wheat was moderately active in supplying old sales, but new business was scarce, Eastern bids for wheat were 1-2 to 1c below our market. No. 2 soft sold to extent of 75,000 bushels at 80 3-4 to 81 1-2c and at close 81 3-4c sellers was the market. Among the Fishes.

Boston, Aug. 8.—(Special.)—The mackerel catch is again looking a little dubious. It is true that the total of mackerel landed for the week, about 7,000 bbls., is the largest of any week since the season opened. But it must be borne in mind that these mackerel were largely caught nearly a week ago, while the latest reports from fishermen say that they have been getting but few mackerel for two or three days. The reports also suggest that the mackerel "have gone down," at least they are not to be found. This disappearance of mackerel, just at the time when the outlook was the most hopeful for several seasons, is disappointing to the fishermen and to the trade, and it has also influenced the market toward higher prices, which prices have actually been realized. The last sales at Gloucester were yesterday at $10.25 from the vessel, 'right through." The jobbers are also firmer, with their quotations at: Medium 3s, $10@10.50; small 2s, $11.50@12; large 2s, $13; 1s, $18@25 as to quality.

The total catch of mackerel landed by the New England fleet up to date has been 22,991 bbls; same time a year ago, 11,116 bbls.; same time in 1890, 4,113 bbls.; in 1889, 3,225 bbls.; in 1888, 12,564 bbls. Since January 1, 1892, the total importations of mackerel now amount to 22,067 bbls.; same time in 1891, 15,642 bbls.; same time in 1890, 21,382 bbls.; same time in 1889, 11,807 bbls.; same time in 1888, 15,256 bbls.; same time in 1887, 13,556 bbls.

The position of codfish is very much firmer. The catch of codfish is short.

Reports say that the total receipts for July are short of the same month last year by fully 100,000 lbs. Besides the weather has been such that it has been impossible to dry fish, and the market on dry fish is very firm. The shortage of fish still continues to be in the way of large, in consequence of which large fish are relatively firmer than small. The market by the jobbers is quoted at: Large dry bank, $7@7.25; medium, $4.75; large pickled bank, $6.50; medium, $3.25@3.75; large shore, $7@7.25; medium, $4.50; pickled pollock nominal, $3.50; boneless hake, 4@4 1-2c per lb; cod, 5.50@8c.

On barrel herring the market is firmer. There have been a few arrivals of new Cape Breton herring, and they have sold at the very high figure of $7 per bbl, out of cargo, and this put up the position of other herring. The quotations are some 50c per bbl higher at: Nova Scotia, large split, $4.50@5; medium, $3.50@4; Labrador, $5; new Cape Breton, $8; round shore, large, nominal, $2@2.25.

Box herring also continue very firm, with sales of medium scaled, from cargoes at 14c. The jobbers are also firmer at 16@17c for medium scaled, tied and free on board, and at 11@12c.

The position of sardines is very firm. Reports from Eastport indicate that the pack of the season is amounting to almost nothing, and that the packers are very firm in their ideas. But the dealers here have not yet increased prices, for the reason that they are hoping to sell out their old stocks: Quarter oils, $3.70@4; 3-4 mustards, $3; 1-2 oils, $5.75.

The canners are getting no small mackerel to can, and this renders them very firm on what they have in stock. The quotations are at: Regular 1-lb cans, $1.10; 2-lb, oval fancy tacks, $2.25; 3-lb fancy packs, $2.75.

Canned lobsters are in a firm position. The pack on the Maine coast will amount to next to nothing, and the Nova Scotia pack will also be a short one. The quotations are very firm at $1.85@1.90 for new.

The syndicate is controlling the Alaska salmon pack to the extent that the market looks very firm. The quotations are at: Alaska salmon, 1.25@1.30; Columbia river steak, $1.75@1.95.

Smoked salmon are easier. The first arrival of the season the other day sold at $25, $26, and even up to $27 per bbl., but now they can be had at $21@22. The dealers have put their price at 20c per lb.

WORSE THAN PURGATORY.

What a Man Experienced With a Macho and an Outfit.

A man arrived from Alamo last week who could give Dante pointers on the extent and attractions of the infernal regions. He was the owner of a good macho and complete prospecting suit when he left the aguaje of Burro Flaco, in the heart of the peninsula, seven weeks ago, and all he had as he dragged himself into La Flor camp, near Alamo, was a blanket and an appetite muy fuerte. His mule refused to go around a precipice on San Pedro, and on his persuasion it backed too pronto for him. The man landed in a mescal clump, but the macho chewed sedge in Proserpine's dark garden from then on. In a day of hard work the desgraciado pulled out with a kit of 100 pounds, which in each weary mile grew lighter as he dropped tools, rifle, clothes, and grub. He was in great agony as to water, but fortunately all the arroyos were full. The society of a few caddish mountain lions or low-down coyotes was all that saved him from madness while traversing the Lonesome Hills. At Chapalola Canyon his eyes were gladdened by the sight of a deep green forest of sycamore, oak, alamos and pine, in which sported quail, rabbits, lions, lynx and fac deer.

The sight of living things cheered him as water-snakes cheered the skinny-handed old mariner, giving him strength to take his slow trail along the yawning desert, down steep slopes into swampy cienegas, and up across llanos pedregosos and through ramas of cactus, maguey, juniper, mesquit, "filagree," sage, poppy, chemisal, wild oats, cat-claws, visnagas and the thousand of varieties of flowers that run riot over the hills and blush from high mountain tops. Six weeks of wandering through forth-rights and meanders landed him in La Flor where the generous Frenchmen filled him with bouillon and took him to Alamo. He rested and fed up, and now one of the permanent fixtures of Mescal avenue, in that burg, is the man that can give pointers to old Dante. He tells his tale generally in the Diablo Verde, with a fiddle prelude, and on great occasions of "convivial" import an interlude is introduced, and all sing "Old John Piper" and come down heavy on the bass.—Ensenada Lower Californian.

HELPING UNCLE SAM.

The Mint Is Too Small and Blanks Are Bough Ready to be Stamped.

Proposals are being advertised to supply the Philadelphia mint with 500,000 pounds of one-cent blanks and 200,000 pounds of five-cent nickel blanks. The reason for this is that there is no room at the mint for base metal work. As far back as 1873 the coinage at the mint had reached such proportions that a quantity of the blanks for the minor coins were made outside. In 1878, when the coinage of silver dollars was begun, it became necessary to have all the base metal coins made in blank outside and sent to the mint properly annealed, cleaned, milled and ready for the coining presses. There have been no blanks except for gold and silver coins made at the mint for over ten years.

The bidding will be limited, as there are not more than five or six firms in the United States that do such work. Last year the contract was awarded to Scovel & Co., of Waterbury, Conn., and prior to that Merchant & Co., of this city, had the contract. It is interesting to know that ten new pennies weigh exactly one ounce and 500,000 pounds of pennies will amount to $800,000. A five-cent nickel weighs 77 grains.

The firms who take the contract to supply the government with blanks of minor coins are required to mix the metals in the right proportions, which, in the case of the one cent blanks are composed of ninety-five per cent. of copper and five per cent. of tin and zinc in equal proportions. After the blanks have been cut, annealed and milled, they are cleaned and packed in casks for delivery to the mint. On the arrival of the blanks at the mint they are carefully inspected, weighed and samples from each cask are assayed to determine if they come up to the required standard and all blanks not suitable for coinage purposes are rejected.

LOW RATE HARVES TEXCURSIONS.

The announcement that the North-Western Line, comprising over 8,000 miles of thoroughly equipped railway, has arranged to run two low rate Harvest Excursions during the months of August and September, will be gladly received by those who are interested in the development of the great west and northwest, as well as by those who desire to visit this wonderfully productive region at a season of the year when exact demonstration can be made of the merits and advantages it offers to home seekers and those in search of safe and profitable investments.

These excursions will leave Chicago on August 30 and Sept. 27, and tickets can be purchased at the very low rate of one fare for the round trip to points in Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho and Montana. They will be strictly first-class in every particular and will be good for return passage at any time within twenty days from date of purchase. Full information concerning rates and arrangements for these excursions can be obtained upon application to any coupon ticket agent, or to W. A. Thrall, G. P. A., Chicago & North-Western railway, Chicago.

SHE WANTED TO SEE THE SHOW.

A sign hanging in front of a place of liquid refreshment which read: "Tom and Jerry, 10 cents." A red-eyed young person from the country looked at it eagerly and then gazed about for an entrance. A philanthropic and somewhat horrified woman who was passing said:

"Is there something you are looking for? Can I assist you in any way?"

The round-eyed person said:

"Yes'm. I want to see that," nodding toward the sign.

"To see that? Why, what do you mean? 'Tom and Jery' is the name of a drink—an intoxicating drink—and this is a barroom."

Then the country maiden looked abashed and faltered:

"Oh, I really didn't know. I thought it was the name of a show, like Punch and Judy, and I wanted to see it."—New York World.

NO PRECEDENTS.

Ferguson Was Eccentric, and Therefore Censurable.

There was a man whose name may be given as Ferguson, because it was something entirely different from Ferguson, and Ferguson will do as well as any other name. Besides, it is a handy one to speak and looks well in print.

This man Ferguson was a county treasurer, with a good salary, a wife and six fair-haired daughters, a position in society, ample means, the confidence of everybody in the community, and was, moreover, the superintendent of the largest Sunday school in the county. There was no reason on earth why he should betray the confidence reposed in him, bring reproach on the honored name of Ferguson, and drag his amiable and deserving family down to share in his own disgrace.

But one day, like a clap of thunder from a clear sky—this being the phrase usually employed in cases like this—there came the announcement that there was a discrepancy of $10,000 in County Treasurer Ferguson's accounts.

Inquiry at the county building and at the various banks only served to confirm the report.

Then society gathered up its skirts. It was the duty of society to protect itself, and justice must be done.

And everybody said County Treasurer Ferguson ought to be in the penitentiary.

But the next it leaked out that the discrepancy in the accounts arose from the fact that Treasurer Ferguson had not drawn his salary for four years, and instead of his being short in his accounts and a defaulter, the county owned him $16,000.

And then everybody said Treasurer Ferguson ought to be in the insane asylum.—Chicago Tribune.

HEADACHE AND DYSPEPSIA.

William E. Rockwell, No. 512 West 57th street, New York, says:

"I have been a martyr to billous headache and dyspepsia. Any indiscretion in diet, over-fatigue or cold, brings on a fit of indigestion, followed by a headache lasting two or three days at a time. I think I must have tried over twenty different remedies, which were recommended as certain cures by loving friends, but it was no use. At last I thought I would take a simple course of purgation with Brandreth's Pills. For the first week I took two pills every night, then one pill for thirty nights; in that time I gained three pounds in weight, and never have had an ache or pain since."

Disease in one part of the body will eventually fill the whole body with disease. Every year or two some part of the system grows weak and begins to decay. Such part should be removed at once, and new matter be allowed to take its place. There's no need of cutting it out with a surgeon's scalpel. Purge away the old, diseased and worn-out parts with Brandreth's Pills.

AN INCIDENT ON THE STREET.

Crash! smash! went something in the large plate-glass window of a bric-a-brac shop on Grand River avenue, and everybody rushed to the spot, and in a moment a throng of curious people stood on the walk.

"Thought it was the window glass," said one, as he pressed forward.

"Scared me out of a year's growth," cried another.

"Guess the boy that broke that will wish he had never been born."

"Nobody killed—come on."

"It didn't take that boy as long to break that vase as it did to make it."

The boy who had done the mischief and accidentally broken the bit of painted clay that lay at his feet in fragments clung to the stepladder he stood on, with a white, scared face.

Only one person noticed him, the clay made in the likeness of its Maker, and that was an old, motherly-looking woman with a basket on her arm, who stood there with the crowd.

"Poor boy!" she said, and the tender compassion of her voice fell like oil on the troubled waters. To her the image with a soul was worth more than the object of decorative art.—Detroit Free Press.

A RULE THAT WON'T WORK BOTH WAYS.

Freddy is 4 years old, and has been brought up on the moral suasion plan, the birch and the thong being unknown factors in his education. This summer his parents took a cottage in the country—and his mother told him that the hens were his, and that they must never be allowed in the flower garden. On Sunday afternoon Freddy decided to take his feathered tribe for an outing. He evidently anticipated walking along the road in dignity, followed by a decorous brood of chickens, which would return at the proper time to the hennery. So he let them out. They promptly gave evidence of the state of original sin in which chickens are born by scampering into the flower garden. Freddy looked at them with grave reproof in his eyes and said:

"Hens, hens, come back. Don't you hear me? I am your master."

The hens declined to come, and Freddy has since raised grave fears in his mother's mind by solemnly announcing that he doesn't think he'll do things any more "because mamma says so," since the same rule doesn't work with those beings over whom he is placed in authority.—New York World.

THE THREAD OF HIS DISCOURSE.

There is a good story of George William Curtis, which seems never to have been published. He was lecturing on a Buffalo stage once, when suddenly a heavy rope somehow broke loose from its moorings in the flies above, and dropped with a tremendous thud to the floor behind the speaker. Mr. Curtis looked around in mild surprise, to see what had happened, then, turning to the alarmed audience again, said, with a twinkle in his eye: "Ah, that must have been the thread of my discourse."—Buffalo Express.

EARTH-WORM OIL.

There is no better specific for rheumatism than earth-worm oil. It is commonly made by taking two or three dozen of the largest earth-worms that can be found, and placing them in a tin or iron cup over the fire. In a few moments the worms will dissolve into a fine oil, which is then strained and may be bottled, tightly corked and set away in a cool place for use. It should be employed as a Liniment, and the stiffest rheumatic joints, well rubbed with this natural lubricant, will recover their former flexibility.

A GRATEFUL BOY.

Little children teach those of larger growth many a lesson. Would that older people were always as thoughtful for their blessings! Little B. had just recovered from a tedious illness and was wild as a colt with the pleasure of being out again. The other day he was invited to a picnic and came home brimming over with the happiness he had enjoyed. That night, when he said his prayers as usual at his aunt's knee, he added of his own accord: "I thank Thee for giving that picnic and letting me go to it."—New York Tribune.
